NO MORE BOUNDARY CHANGES, SAY BRITISH

Hitler Said to Have Been Warned Move On Czechs Might Bring British Action

Indications in London, Says Associated Press, Are That Chamberlain Has Given Germany Hint of Britain's Policy No More Boundary Changes by Force in Central Europe Shall Follow Austria's

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain, according to the Associated Press, is determined to match the armed might of Germany before publicly pledging Great Britain to support Czechoslovakia against German aggression.

There are indications, the Associated Press learned, Britain privately has told Germany she may be compelled to act if Chancellor Hitler seeks to bring the German minority in Czechoslovakia into the German nation, as, without opposition, he absorbed Austria.

The British ambassador, Sir Nevile Henderson, told Field Marshal Herman Goering in Berlin, diplomatic informants said, that Britain considered "binding" his (Goering's) friendly assurances to Czechoslovakia last Saturday. Goering was speaking as Acting Chancellor while Hitler was absent in Austria. A similar communication went to Jan Masaryk, Czech minister in London.

BOUNDARIES UPHELD

Thus, it is felt here, Britain has given an implied warning to Germany of a determination to uphold the remaining boundaries of central Europe.

Exactly what form of action Britain would undertake in the event of a German push into Czechoslovakia was not apparent.

The French government has asked for a definite promise of British armed support, and France herself has renewed pledges to fight for Czechoslovakia.

There were reports Goering was attempting to make a deal with the Czech government whereby Germany peacefully would become protector of the 3,500,000 Czech German and guard all Czechoslovakia from "Bolshevism."

France Prepares To Send Troops To Spain Border

Franco's Army, With Italians, Advancing; Paris Watches Changes

Hitler Sending Franco Supplies

PARIS (AP) — Reinforcement of French defences on the Spanish frontier was discussed today by Premier Leon Blum and the army general staff after receipt of secret service reports of a new influx of Italian troops into insurgent Spain.

Officials declared the French government viewed the number of Italian soldiers in insurgent territory as surpassing the needs of General Franco's drive toward the Mediterranean.

Authorities said secret agents also had reported large quantities of German armaments had been landed at insurgent ports since Saturday, along with numerous Italian soldiers.

The Spanish government embassy issued a denial of reports the Barcelona government had asked for an armistice or offered to capitulate. It also denied reports of disorders in Barcelona.

ITALIANS WATCHED

It was pointed out officially in Paris that in case of war between France and Germany over any German move against Czechoslovakia, troops maintained in Spain by Italy might constitute a real threat to the French Pyrenees frontier.

One official said Italian troops had been seen "in great numbers" in northern Spain, near the Pyrenees, well behind the present insurgent fronts.

(The Spanish government news agency in London said it had not issued any reports of a Barcelona request for an armistice.)

TEMPS REPORT

PARIS (CP-Havas)—Le Temps today reported from Barcelona that parleys are in progress there between the Spanish government and representatives of General Franco.

With Franco's forces pressing dangerously close to the Mediterranean seaboard in a drive aimed to cut government territory in half, the situation in the Catalan capital was described as "grave."

The report of the parleys could not be confirmed, Le Temps said.

TALK OF SPAIN ARMISTICE

British M.P.'s Hear London and Paris Confer on Effort

LONDON (CP)—The Havas News Agency tonight reported parliamentary sources to the effect that the Spanish government admits it is unable to hold out much longer and the British and French governments are consulting with a view to an "armistice with honor" to which Barcelona would be ready to subscribe.

Spanish government spokesmen were reported to have acknowledged their troops could not cope with the huge forces and supplies martialled by General Franco in his current Aragon offensive, and were said to be ready to conclude an honorable peace.

APPEAL DENIED

BARCELONA (AP) — A government spokesman tonight declared reports abroad the government had asked the insurgents for an armistice were "not only false but ridiculous and vile."

French Warships At Barcelona

PARIS (CP-Havas) — France today dispatched three warships to Barcelona at the request of the French ambassador in Spain to protect French citizens and interests.

Erik Labonne, envoy at Barcelona, informed Paris the military situation of the Spanish government was very grave and asked for the warships.

COOL WEATHER TO CONTINUE

Victoria's weather outlook is still unsettled with the prospect that the present cool spell will continue for some days, it was reported at the Dominion Meteorological Observatory here this morning.

The forecast for today is for fresh southeast winds and cloudy skies.

Tonight and tomorrow the wind is expected to shift to the south and southwest and to increase in force.

The highest wind velocity recorded on the anemometer at the Observatory yesterday was 35 miles an hour, between 4 and 5 in the afternoon.

Nazis Complete Their Control of Austria

The above picture, telephotoed to London and radioed to New York and across this continent, shows the Nazis as they marched into the Austrian Chancellery, chief government building in Vienna. Hardly more than boys, they bore rifles and boxes of ammunition in preparation for any eventuality.

HIGHER RADIO FEE CONFIRMED

Battery Sets Exempt From Boost to $2.50; Separate Licenses For Sets

OTTAWA (CP)—Persons residing in areas where there is no electrical distribution system and who are thus obliged to operate their radios by storage batteries will not be subject to the increase in receiving set license fees which will become effective April 1.

This was announced by Col. V. I. Smart, Deputy Minister of Transport, who stated that beginning April 1 the fee would be increased from the present rate of $2 to $2.50, and that every private radio would require a license, with the exception of those in the automobiles of tourists visiting Canada.

HOSPITALS EXEMPT

A further concession is made for hospitals and charitable institutions, none of which will require radio licenses. Heretofore it has been the custom to extend this privilege only to such institutions as are operated by the federal or provincial governments.

Austrians at New Low at New York; London Exchange Disturbed

NEW YORK (CP) — Austrian bonds tumbled to new low levels in the bond market here today.

In a market badly unsettled by swiftly-moving events in central Europe, the Austrian 7s, which broke around 37 points Monday, were down more than four today.

French bonds were down small amounts, the 7½s dropping three points.

Czechoslovakia government 8s were up at the close after small initial losses of around a point. However, Prague 7½s were off about four points.

LONDON TRADING

LONDON (AP) — Great Britain's decision to expand its rearmament program, involving the likelihood of further taxes, and continued uncertainty over developments in central Europe, brought a heavy slump today on the stock exchange here.

Most European government bonds, which fell heavily Monday, continued to decline.

Geneva advices said the Bourse there had suspended dealings in Austrian securities until further notice. Operators on the Paris Bourse were taking a more favorable view of the internal French political situation, London heard. Rentes eventually finished the day with gains.

PARIS (AP) — The franc slid farther downward in early bank trading today, while the new Popular Front government tried to accelerate French rearmament to back up a stiffening diplomatic stand against Germany.

The franc fell to 33.35 to the dollar—65 centimes below yesterday's bank closing and 105 centimes below the Bourse closing.

NO BRITISH AIR FORCE INQUIRY

Chamberlain Rejects Proposal; Urges All Branches Speed Up

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain, refusing an inquiry into the British military air program, told the House of Commons today he was opposed to imitating Germany by regimenting the nation for production of armaments.

A comprehensive investigation of military as well as civil aviation had been proposed.

The Prime Minister declared he did not know whether those suggesting the inquiry "would like us to imitate Germany in the method she has employed—regimenting the country for production of armaments."

He added:

"We may have to, but we will not do it until we are convinced that nothing else will serve our purpose."

Mr. Chamberlain went on to declare he would find it difficult at any time to accede to a request amounting to "instituting a courtmartial on the Secretary of State."

He referred to Viscount Swinton, Secretary for Air, who had been under parliamentary attack.

"You cannot find a more inopportune moment than the present to institute an investigation which must distract attention and occupy the minds of those not only engaged in administration but on production," the Prime Minister said.

"This is not the time. Let us all put our efforts together to get on with the job and supply this country with the air force it requires in the shortest possible time."

Jews Forced To Scrub in Vienna

Hitler Tour Of Triumph Ends

Flies Back to Munich After Speech and Demonstration in Vienna

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Adolf Hitler arrived here by special airplane tonight, returning from his triumphal four-day visit to Austria, which he absorbed into the German nation.

Hitler's swift military airplane left the suburban airport in Vienna at 5.12 p.m. (8.12 a.m., P.S.T.), accompanied by two other planes. It arrived here at 7.10 p.m.

Before he left the leader of the expanded German realm himself said he had had in Vienna the greatest triumph of his extraordinary rise to power.

In four days he had conquered old Austria without firing a shot.

VIENNA (AP) — Adolf Hitler, his triumph in Vienna completed, late today departed from the Aspern airport by plane, presumably for Munich.

The Fuehrer's departure came at the end of a day during which his career seemed to reach its zenith.

With the imperial palace of the Hapsburgs as a background he proclaimed this morning to frenzied Viennese throngs the end of Austrian independence and the entrance of his native land "into the German Reich."

FRENCH SPEED ARMY PLANS

Defence Council Drafts Plans For Possible Aid to Czechoslovakia

PARIS (AP) — It was announced today the Supreme National Defence Council of France had been summoned to meet within a few day to draft plans for French military aid to Czechoslovakia in event of German aggression.

Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour was at Premier Blum's side in the conference today with the general staff. In the conference were Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, great war hero, former chief of the general staff; General Marie Gustav Gamelin, chief of the general staff; General Victor Vuillemin, chief of the air general staff, and Vice-admiral Jean Darlan, chief of the naval staff.

SAW AMBASSADOR

Shortly before this conference M. Paul-Boncour consulted Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador.

A French official said:

"The essential preoccupation of the French government at the present time concerns the presence of German and Italian troops in the ranks of Franco's army.

"Such a situation forces the French government to take a serious view not only from the diplomatic viewpoint but also from the viewpoint of national defence."

President Quezon Agrees to Study Postponement of Independence

MANILA (AP) — President Manuel Quezon today agreed with High Commissioner Paul McNutt that the question of Philippine independence should be re-examined in the light of recent disquieting world events.

The President, who in the past had advocated immediate independence, made his announcement after listening to a broadcast from Washington, D.C., in which Mr. McNutt urged United States sovereignty should remain in the islands.

Under the Tydings-McDuffie Act, the Filipinos are guaranteed independence in 1946. Mr. McNutt asked immediate co-operation of Filipino leaders and Americans in a "realistic re-examination of their long-range interests and our own."

He predicted the Philippines would become "bloody ground" and "the centre of war."

Anti-Chamberlain Banner Is Removed

LONDON (CP-Havas)—Police on duty around the House of Commons rubbed their eyes in amazement today when they saw a huge white banner with the words "Chamberlain must go" floating from the fourth floor window of an unoccupied building on the corner of Bridge and Parliament streets directly in front of Westminster.

The banner was put up during the night by unknown persons who gained entrance to the vacant building. It was taken down by police.

Municipalities Ask Relief Aid

Warning Cities Near End of Tether Heard as Ottawa Meeting Opens

OTTAWA (CP)—Insistent demands that the federal government recognize unemployment relief as its problem were heard today as the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities opened a three-day meeting here.

From representatives of the west, east and centre of Canada were heard statements municipalities were near the end of the rope so far as relief financing is concerned. From Alderman W. H. Biggar of Montreal came the warning that "if the municipalities go down, we shall pull the federal government with us." Mayor Ralph C. Day of Toronto presided at the opening session, devoted to a discussion of federal-city relations.

"Unemployment relief spells nothing less than almost certain financial disaster for the municipalities," said Mayor George Miller of Vancouver. "We have curtailed essential services, eaten into our resources and exhausted our borrowing powers, hoping and believing the federal government would eventually recognize this problem as a national one."

British Freighter Wrecked By Bombs

Seaman Killed as Stanwell Set Afire in Eastern Spain Port

BARCELONA (CP) — Ablaze after being struck by bombs from Spanish insurgent war planes in the port of Tarragona early today, the British freighter Stanwell was considered doomed by observers.

One British seaman was killed and a Danish nonintervention observer was wounded. Tarragona, government-held port on the Mediterranean, was bombed four times in the early morning and on the last raid the Stanwell, a 5,747-ton vessel registered at London was hit.

Half an hour before the vessel was attacked, an insurgent seaplane was brought down near Tarragona and its five occupants burned to death. Government officials said they all were Germans.

DISPUTE OVER PLACER RIGHTS

Indians Claim Prior Authority On Stretch of Bridge River

LILLOOET, B.C. (CP) — The question of placer mining rights in the lower Bridge River district arose here today.

For the last 76 years whites, Chinese and Indians have mined the lower 20 miles of Bridge River for placer at low water each spring. Saturday seven Indians of the Bridge River Reserve gave notice that only members of their reserve had the right to mine in that area.

Several days ago they drove off Indians of another band. They also notified a party in charge of a hydraulic mine that they must leave in 10 days.

The Bridge River Indians claim they have the sole right to mine there by law.

Many of the placer miners on the river do this work to make a living and keep off relief. Several of them are farmers.

The income they receive in most cases is not large—it averages about $1 a day.

The B.C. Department of Mines said today there has been a local feud between Indians on the Bridge River and the miners for several years. The Indians have a reserve along the lower Bridge River and resent trespass by miners.

Mining on Indian reserves is permitted, it was stated, so long as permission is given by the local Indian agent, and it does not interfere with the Indians.

Wood of the coast redwood tree is remarkably enduring, being very resistant to insect attack and fire.

MUNICIPALITIES ASK RELIEF AID

would place another burden on municipal treasuries, Mayor Miller said. Provincial treasuries could do little to help.

The "pick-and-shovel" test for willingness to work was not fair, declared Mayor Miller. There were many white-collar workers who could not do such work. But under the federal plans they would be classed as unemployable. This group was being wiped out.

"We must all continue to press for the assumption of the entire relief problem by Ottawa," said Mayor Miller.

Mayor Pinder of Saskatoon said he objected strenuously to shifting the whole burden of relief for "unemployables" on the municipalities. They just could not stand it.

CITY GROUND DOWN

Mayor John W. Fry, Edmonton, said his city was tired of being ground between the federal and provincial millstones.

Winnipeg had its back to the wall with its financial problem, said Mayor George MacLean of St. Boniface, Man., taking up the cudgel for his province's capital.

Western Canada faced an "absolute breakdown of municipal government," said Alderman Paul Bardel of Winnipeg. Present subsidies for unemployment relief were a joke.

A breakdown of municipal government in Canada, the centralization of all authority which would result, would bring about a totalitarian state, said Alderman Biggar. The alternative was for the federal, provincial and municipal governments to realize equality of brains and experience in each other.

Von Schuschnigg Still Prisoner

He and Ex-President Miklas Being Held in Vienna; Marriage Report

VIENNA (AP) — The deposed Chancellor of Austria, Kurt von Schuschnigg, remained under arrest at his palace apartment today. The resigned President Wilhelm Miklas was confined to his home.

MARRIAGE REPORT

BRUSSELS (CP-Havas) — Former Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg of Austria on Monday married Countess Czernin, to whom he became betrothed a year ago, the Vienna correspondent of the newspaper Nation Belge reported today.

The National Zeitung of Essen, organ of Hermann Goering, Germany's No. 2 Nazi, said Monday: "Ex-Chancellor Schuschnigg has been placed under German protection and is in his home, where he has been given a guard of 150 Schutzstaffeln (Nazi blackshirts) to protect him 'from the love of his people.'"

Prince von Starhemberg, former chief of the Austrian Heimwehr, and once vice-chancellor under Von Schuschnigg, "was arrested at the East Station (of Vienna) at the moment when he was trying to take a run-out powder after having withdrawn a large sum of money," the newspaper stated.

(Von Starhemberg was reported Sunday to have reached Hungary with his bride, the actress Nora Gregor.)

activity. This will be followed by submissions from lesser bodies, including Vancouver City Council, school trustees, chambers of commerce, boards of trade and others.

There are 30 in the party traveling with the commission, including secretaries, technicians, stenographers and newspapermen.

Members of the board are widely versed in Canadian public affairs.

Chief Justice Rowell's association with the public life of Canada dates back to 1900 when he entered the Ontario Legislature. He was subsequently Liberal Opposition leader in Ontario, president of the council in the Unionist government of Canada during the war, a member of the Imperial War Cabinet in 1918, Canadian representative at the International Labor Conference in Washington in 1919, and delegate of Canada at the first League of Nations Assembly in 1920.

Sitting with Chief Justice Rowell are:

Dr. John W. Dafoe, president and manging editor of the Winnipeg Free Press. He started his newspaper career in 1883 as a reporter on the Montreal Star and for 37 years has directed the destinies of the Free Press. He is recognized as a leading authority on the Canadian west. He was attached to the Canadian delegation to the Peace Conference in 1919, and was a delegate to the Imperial Press Conference in London in 1909 and 1930, and to Australia in 1925. He is author of several books on Canadian public affairs.

Dr. Joseph Sirois, prominent Montreal barrister. He is a member of one of the oldest notary firms in Quebec, and past president of the Quebec Board of Notaries. He is regarded as an authority on constitutional questions.

Prof. H. F. Angus, professor of economics at the University of British Columbia. He is a native son of Victoria and was educated at McGill and Oxford.

Dr. R. A. MacKay, professor of government at Dalhousie University, Nova Scotia.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chief Justice Newton W. Rowell of Ontario and members of the commission on Dominion-provincial relations which he heads arrived here today and boarded the morning boat for Victoria, where sittings resume tomorrow morning.

"We come to hear words, not speak them," Mr. Justice Rowell told would-be interviewers.

Commission members said there had been requests for sittings in Vancouver, but that decision on that point had been left to the British Columbia government.

Mr. Justice Rowell said he "hoped" to complete commission business in Victoria by March 25, so Edmonton sittings could begin March 28.

FRANCE PREPARES TO SEND TROOPS TO SPAIN BORDER

velilla to seize a section of the highway.

Troops from Alcaniz captured Valdealgorfa, just north of Raimundo and about eight miles southeast of Alcaniz.

This phase of Generalissimo Franco's great offensive placed his front only 40 miles from the Mediterranean seaboard, midway between Valencia and Barcelona, former and present capitals of the Republican government.

The insurgents took a crossroads at Raimundo, where they met little resistance. The government's army appeared to be in full retreat toward the sea.

NEW MINISTRY SOUGHT

PEPIGNAN, France (at the Spanish Border) (AP)—Travelers reaching the French border from Barcelona reported today extremists there were demanding reorganization of the Spanish government, confronted with a crisis as a result of the insurgent armies' sweep towards the Mediterranean.

MADRID (AP)—Ancient Spain is being devastated, a government communique said today, by a 20th century Italian army.

Describing the Spanish insurgent march eastward toward the Mediterranean, the government itself told of artillery and motorized columns and bombing planes sweeping through the ancient land that once was part of the Roman Empire.

Italian troops and German and Italian planes took part in the insurgent capture Monday of Albaniz in eastern Spain, 45 miles from the Mediterranean, the government declared.

While the troops struck directly against the city, the government related, the planes spread death and confusion over a dozen coastal towns.

Almost hourly the planes swung along the main Barcelona-to-Valencia highway, now become the most dangerous 250-mile stretch for government convoys.

No car along the heavily congested road within the past three days escaped attack, and motorists frequently deserted their cars and jumped into roadside ditches until danger was past.

Civilians found one refuge in Tarragona, outside Barcelona, in ancient Roman caves which still form a part of the picturesque port's architecture and the foundation for more modern structures.

HASTY WORDS ARE AVOIDED

But Some British Papers Urge Chamberlain Address Europe More Plainly

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain was praised by the British press today for what he said in the House of Commons Monday and criticized for what he did not say.

There was general approval of his plea for coolheadedness and no hasty words, but there was also much feeling he might have gone farther in pledging Great Britain's opposition to further European aggression and still be not guilty of hasty words.

Winston Churchill's request for a precise definition of the government's policy appealed to The Times of London. "Mr. Churchill was right beyond question," that paper said.

"If only to dispose of ignorant charges flung during the last few weeks, the Foreign Secretary and the Prime Minister would do well to put British policy, if not beyond the reach of party attacks, at least beyond the risk of misunderstanding or doubt in the mind of the ordinary citizen."

SEEN AS ABDICATION

The London News Chronicle, Liberal, interpreted the speech as a British abdication. "We have had our face slapped and been told to keep our nose out of central Europe, and we have swallowed the rebuff," it said. "Rearmament alone is not any sort of answer. A grim future faces us."

The London Financial News, Independent, declared: "If Czechoslovakia falls then the whole of central Europe will fall under the control of the Nazis. Countries may retain formal autonomy, but they will be ruled from Berlin In those circumstances we must realize bluntly that France would be powerless and the British Empire indefensible The Empire is menaced in the Far East by Japan and in the Mediterranean by Italy and the shortsightedness of the isolationist press and indeed, in a lesser degree, of the British government itself."

PULSE TAKEN

LEEDS, Eng. (CP-Havas)—The Yorkshire Post, influential Conservative newspaper owned by the family of Mrs. Anthony Eden, published an editorial criticizing the government's "complacent" attitude towards events leading up to Chancellor Hitler's Austrian coup.

"It was no coincidence," said The Post, "that Herr von Ribbontrop (German Foreign Minister) was in London at the right moment to take the pulse of the British ministers and to make sure no effective British action need be expected."

drive inaugurated by the Austrian

Germany's final goal in the coup, the newspaper declared, is the total destruction of France, "not to gain French territory but, as 'Mein Kampf' (Adolf Hitler's autobiography and political testament) sets out, to remove Germany's last serious continental military rival and thus to free her hands for the seizure of as much territory eastwards as she may desire. . . . .

"Our armaments and our defences must be pushed forward very much faster."

thousands of Austrians, the Fuehrer rode into Heroes' Square outside the palace through the great stone arch of the emperor which bears the inscription: "Justice is the foundation of government." He entered through the burg gate, never opened except for conquerors and the most important state occasions.

SUNNY SCENE

It was an almost cloudless day, with the temperature mild.

While Hitler presided over the greatest triumph of his meteoric career, telling his 7,000,000 new Austrian subjects to meet their new responsibilities, his lieutenants took over all functions of the Austrian government.

The Austrian treasury was absorbed by the German treasury. Hitler's foreign minister took all Austria's foreign relations with the outside world.

Austria became merely a gau—district—of the German realm, Vienna a provincial German city such as Dresden and Hamburg Arthur Seyss-Inquart was no longer chancellor but merely "governor of Austria" — so addressed significantly by the Fuehrer himself.

The new government announced that Jews no longer can vote.

THE INTRODUCTION

Seyss-Inquart, introducing Hitler to the throng in Heroes' Square, solemnly proclaimed to the world Hitler had come in this significant hour as "Fuehrer and Reichschancellor in the Hofburg (palace) of the old imperial capital, the guardian of the crown."

Some of his hearers took this as a hint that Hitler one day might assume that crown.

Seyss-Inquart introduced Hitler thus:

"I formally report the legal completion of Austro-German anschluss (union). My leader, wherever the way leads, we follow."

MASS EXCITEMENT

Addressing the almost hysterical mass of humanity as "German men and women," the Fuehrer asserted:

"Sixty-eight million Germans, I assure you this country is Garmany. . . .

"It will be our immediate duty to work hard to solve economic problems and make this land a fortress of National Socialism.

"I thank the Austrian governor, Seyss-Inquart, and the many idealists who labored with him. It shows the strength of Germans increases the more pressure is put on them.

"These years of suffering have shown me the worth of the Austrian people. . . . .

"In the last few days have occurred events which cannot be evaluated yet—a unification of the German nation.

"I know this new portion of the German Reich will meet its resopnsibility as the old nation has."

Waves of shouting interrupted his address. The surge of excitement swelled from the packed square to the streets beyond, as all Vienna went wild with its greeting to the Austrian-born leader who had returned as the ruler of both Austria and Germany.

NEW MISSION

Hitler announced that for Austria—"the most thoroughly German outpost of the German people"—its "new mission," to be henceforth "the newst bulwark of the German nation and therefore of the German Reich."

"Through centuries in troubled times of the past," he declared, "storms of the east have broken on the border of the old eastern outpost (Ostmark, the old name for Austria).

"In centuries to come, for all time, there shall be an iron guarantee for the security and freedom of the German Reich and therewith a guarantee for the happiness and peace of our great people."

Many saw in this a hint of revival of the pre-war German "drang nach osten"—march to the east.

GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT

Hitler concluded:

"In this hour I report to the German people the greatest achievecent of my life. As leader and Chancellor of the great German nation I declare to history the entrance of my native land into the German Reich."

ALL SHOUTED

During the events leading up to Hitler's address every one of the thousands lining the streets shouted "Sieg Heil" (Hail Victory!) continuously.

Hitler spoke from the spot from which Engelbert Dollfuss and Kurt von Schuschnigg often spoke in exhortation to the Austrians to cling to their independence.

He spoke within sight of the chancellery at Ballhausplatz, where Dollfuss, trying to save his Austrian countrymen from Hitler, was assassinated in 1934.

But when these Austrian countrymen today heard Hitler they cheered him as a redeemer.

Hitler referred to neither Dollfuss nor the recently-ousted Schuschnigg by name, but spoke of the previous regime as one whose object was "to prevent the formation of a great German people and thus was a barricade to the path of the German people into the future."

The derisive roar which greeted this assertion could be heard half a mile away in Belvedere Palace, where Schuschnigg was held captive by the new masters of his country.

GREETED VETERANS

At the conclusion of a surprisingly short speech, Hitler walked down the stairs of the Heroes' Monument to greet war veterans, some of whom were brought to the base of the memorial in wheelchairs. Afterwards he drove away with Seyss-Inquart at his side.

Nazi Surprises Czech Chamber

PRAHA (AP)—The vice-president of the Sudeten German (pro-Nazi) Party electrified the Czechoslovak Chamber of Deputies today by reading a statement solemnly warning the Czech government to heed the portents revealed by Germany's absorption of Austria.

Karl Hermann Franck, on behalf of his party, called attention to those portents as affecting Czechoslovakia, with its minority of 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans.

A storm of protest broke when Franck, giving the Nazi salute, addressed the chamber as "my comrades."

When the noise had abated Franck declared:

"The Sudeten Germans cannot allow to pass this great historic event, the Austro-German anschluss, without sending from this place fraternal greetings and felicitations to the German nation."

Ministers Speak In Edmonton

Howe and Gardiner Support Marshall, Liberal, in Federal By-election

EDMONTON (CP) — Campaign tempo in the Edmonton East Dominion by-election March 21 was speeded up today following the filing of official nomination papers by three candidates Monday.

R. C. Marshall, former Calgary mayor and once member of the Alberta Legislature for that city, is the Liberal candidate. Walter W. Cleveley, formerly an Independent member of the Edmonton City council, is carrying Conservative colors. Both are contractors.

The Social Credit candidate is Orvis A. Kennedy, 30-year-old hardware salesman. A candidate in the six-member Edmonton constituency in the provincial general elections, 1935, Mr. Kennedy finished sixth in the first count, but failed to gain enough support in recounts.

The by-election, first federal constituency test of Social Credit in Alberta since the 1935 general elections, was made necessary by the death of Dr. W. S. Hall, Social Crediter elected with a plurality of 832 over the Liberal candidate in the six-cornered contest in 1935.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, asserted when speaking here in support of Mr. Marshall, that the Dominion government regards the by-election as the most important since the general election.

FROM OTTAWA

Two more Dominion cabinet ministers entered the campaign Monday night in support of Mr. Marshall. Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, and Hon. James G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, addressed a Liberal rally.

J. C. Landeryou, Social Credit member of the House of Commons for Calgary East, has been speaking in support of Mr. Kennedy and it is expected Premier Aberhart of Alberta, a voter in Edmonton East, will speak at a meeting Friday.

Denton Massey, Conservative member of the House of Commons for Toronto-Greenwood, is scheduled to speak for Mr. Cleveley at a meeting Wednesday when an electrically-transcribed message from Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, federal Conservative Party leader, will be released.

Higher Title For M.P.P.'s Is Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Lieut.-Col. Fraser Hunter's proposal that provinical legislators be given the right to use "M.P." after their names is now before the Ontario Legislature.

The Liberal member for Toronto-St. Patrick, Monday introduced a bill providing each member of the Legislature be designated as "M.P.," meaning member of Parliament, rather than "M.L.A.," meaning member of the Legislative Assembly, or "M.P.P.," meaning member of the Provincial Parliament.

In a note attached to the bill, Mr. Hunter asserted Legislature members should receive "rank, precedence and titular distinction accorded to a member of Parliament of the Dominion of Canada and in the Parliament of Great Britain."

He said the Constitution Act of 1791 set forth that provincial parliaments were to be "copies" of the British Parliament.

Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer's only comment on Fraser Hunter's suggestion was: "With conditions such as they are, why worry about legislative titles?"

JUDGE'S CANDY SCARES MOUSE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fidgeting women drew sharp glances from John W. Dafoe of Winnipeg, speaking at a meeting of the Vancouver Institute here last light.

Cause of the restlessness was a small mouse scampering a few feet from the women's feet.

Chief Justice Aulay Morrison of the British Columbia supreme court hurled a pepperment candy from the fifth row. The mouse fled. Mr. Dafoe resumed his speech.

Council Divided On Arbitration

Not Whole-heartedly Behind Move to Take That Action on School Budget

Aldermanic opinion was definitely divided as the City Council prepared to assemblie this afternoon to decide whether or not it should seek arbitration on the school budget.

Last night, following reception of a communication from the board stating that body had cut another $4,640 from its estimates after the council had sought a reduction of $17,000, the council adjourned to give the mayor and finance committee an opportunity to try to meet trustees with a request to go through school expenditure item by item in order to make further prunings.

The move calling for the effort to secure the interview followed withdrawal of a motion seeking arbitration. Certain of the aldermen felt no good could come from the latter.

The School Board presented its letter to the council after two and a half hours' deliberation. It stated that by rigid retrenchment the trustees were prepared to shave down their expenditure estimate by another $4,640, taking $1,640 from the vote for teachers' salaries, $1,000 from that for educational supplies and $2,000 from that for building and grounds.

"The board wishes to assure the council that in view of the present emergent financial situation, the strictest watch will be maintained on all expenditure," the letter concluded.

LEGAL OPINION

Called to give an opinion on the matter, H. S. Pringle, city solicitor, noted the inclusion in the most recent cuts of $2,000 from the building and grounds account. That would probably cover items considered by himself and D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller-treasurer, as extraordinary expenditure, although listed in the ordinary budget. He again noted there was no dispute over the figure of approximately $6,300 listed by the board as extraordinary expenditure.

Mr. Pringle told the council that if neither side gave notification of a decision to seek arbitration today, the school estimates would stand at the figure listed last night.

Alderman W. Lloyd Morgan remarked on the promise he said the board had made last year that it would reduce its 1938 budget by $20,000. Instead it was $30,000 above the 1937 figure and represented $50,000 more than had been anticipated by the council. The council had offered a compromise calling for a $17,000 further reduction and the board had come back with one of $4,000.

"I don't think it's enough," he added.

"Neither do I," chorused the mayor and Alderman Gadsden.

Alderman Archie Wills remarked that what the board said last year did not bind the present board.

QUESTIONS POLICY

He questioned the soundness of calling for drastically reduced school expenditure when the city budget contained in its draft form provision of $259,000 for debt retirement this year. Even with the credit of $109,000 left over from last year, that figure amounted to five mills, he said.

The mayor stated the council had asked for a $17,000 reduction and had received one of $4,000 from the trustees.

"If we did the same with our estimates, where would we be? We'd be in the soup," he added.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar suggested that perhaps the trustees had come to the conclusion they had cut down too much in previous years and had reached the realization they needed work to safeguard the physical assets of their schools, just as the city would realize that in the not distant future.

The mayor took the position that $190,000 expenditure during the last 10 years should have protected the schools.

Alderman Wills remarked that amounted to $19,000 a year on 18 old schools and other buildings.

Alderman S. H. Okell expressed keen disappointment over the action of the board in making such a small cut. "But what good will arbitration do?" he asked.

Alderman John A. Worthington was also disappointed.

Alderman Morgan introduced a motion calling for arbitration. It was seconded by Alderman B. J. Gadsden.

Alderman Okell repeated his question regarding the value of that course.

"It will place the responsibility on somebody else," Alderman Morgan replied.

In reply to question by Alderman Worthington, Mr. Pringle explained the modus operandi of an arbitration board, which, he said, would include a representative of the council, one from the School Board and a third chosen by the two delegates. Costs would run about $25 a day per member, plus stenographic and other expenses.

Question arose again over building and grounds accounts, as well as educational supplies required by the new course of study.

"Where are you going to get the money. Never mind about the school children, the money is the first consideration," the mayor said.

Alderman Adam brought in the suggestion that the mayor and finance committee seek an interview with the board this morning in an effort to make further cuts.

On the question of recognized extraordinary expenditures, amounting to approximately $6,300, the mayor expressed the view they would be thrown out.

"I'm frankly disappointed, but I can't see arbitration," Alderman Okell repeated. He thought the law should be changed and that the government should take over education. An arbitration board, he thought, would cost the city thousands of dollars.

The motion to seek the joint meeting this morning was put and carried and the council adjourned to reach a decision this afternoon, following a report of the mayor and finance committee.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½-pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

MONEY VIEWS AIRED IN HOUSE

Three Schools Heard; Bennett Attacks Bank of Canada Methods

OTTAWA (CP) — Three opposing schools of political and economic thought found expression in the House of Commons Monday in a debate launched by the Alberta Social Credit group which involved monetary reform, economic Liberalism and Socialism.

W. A. Tucker, Liberal, Rosthhern, Sask., and Social Credit members, stood for monetary reform, although they were not in agreement. M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar, Sask., said monetary reform was not all-important, and looked for a cure for economic ills in nationalization of mines, forests, water powers and monopolistic industries, together with strict control of wages, hours of work and farm prices to assure the workers and the farmers a fair standard of living.

R. J. Deachman, Liberal, North Huron, Ont., one of the few out-and-out free traders in the House, said both were wrong. Restrictions should be removed rather than increased. Money represented labor and wealth, and could only be increased as wealth increased.

These varying views were expressed on the want of confidence motion launched last week by John Blackmore, Social Credit leader. The only supporter of the motion outside the Social Credit ranks was Mr. Coldwell, who said he would vote for it, because it implied the government had not used the resources of Canada to meet the needs of the people.

BENNETT SPEAKS

Failure of one province to meet a treasury bill for $3,000,000 on the due date led the federal government to change the form of the weekly statement of the Bank of Canada, it was charged by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader.

Under the present form of the central bank's weekly statement, it was impossible to tell how many provincial and how many federal treasury bills were held, Mr. Bennett claimed, although the original legislation called for their division. He said the change had been made by order in council.

Without naming the province or giving the date of the transaction, Mr. Bennett said it was after the Bank of Canada had turned down the request of Premier Hepburn of Ontario for a loan. Another province, he recounted, was advanced $3,000,000 by the bank, giving a three-months treasury bill as collateral.

The Conservative leader said he did not know the present status of the transaction, "but I do know that a short time ago the bank held it (the provincial treasury bill) in its vaults as a long-term investment."

The Conservative leader asked members of the government if they were prepared to argue the government had increased control of the central bank by the legislation of last session which changed it from a wholly private institution into a part-public part-private bank. He submitted the government had not increased public control.

Mr. Bennett was still speaking when the House adjourned at 11 p.m.

Aldermen Debate Flag For Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—The matter of a distinctive Canadian flag came before the Vancouver city council Monday and aldermen decided to reopen the question in finance committee March 22.

Alderman H. L. Corey asked the council to adopt a resolution placing itself on record in favor of a "more distinctive national ensign." Canada was the only member of the British Empire that did not have a distinctive flag, he said.

STREAMLINED UNIFORM NOW

No More Brass Buttons, Puttees or Heavy Packs For British Troops

LONDON (CP)—Tommy Atkins' troubles are dwindling. His uniform will be streamlined, his buttons and puttees abolished and most important of all, his pack will be lightened.

The War Office had not yet decided which of two experimental service outfits—embodying these improvements—will be adopted.

Two soldier "mannequins" paraded the new outfits the other day.

The uniforms are of overall type with loose collar attached and with trousers of the ski-slack type. Tough denim is used instead of serge.

One soldier sported a smart outfit with a turkey forage cap, collar buttoned round the neck and trousers buckled at the ankles. The other worse a similar uniform with deerstalker cap, loose peg top trousers worn with canvas gaiters.

In one uniform hidden buttons made of a composition which cannot be shined are used. In the other are zip-fasteners.

Weight of packs had been cut to a minimum by the adoption of small hand cases for personal articles which are to be carried by motor transport when the soldier is on the march.

CALGARY (CP)—A brief urging unification of the three prairie provinces under one government will be presented to the Rowell Commission by the young men's section of the Calary Board of Trade. Members of the section voted when the proposed brief was submitted to them Monday night.

Wasteful extravagance and duplication in provincial governmental effort was advanced as the basis of the need for unification.

Hitler's Final Scheme

GERMANY'S FINAL GOAL IN THE drive inaugurated by the Austrian coup is the total destruction of France, "not to gain French territory but, as 'Mein Kampf' (Adolf Hitler's autobiography and political testament) sets out, to remove Germany's last serious continental military rival, and thus free her hands for the seizure of as much territory eastwards as she may desire."

The opinion we have set out above is that of the Yorkshire Post, one of Great Britain's most influential Conservative newspapers—the property, by the way, of the family of Mrs. Anthony Eden—which also roundly criticizes the British government's "complacent" attitude toward events leading up to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's latest demonstration of what Lord Robert Cecil calls the "new technique of invasion."

Nor was it any coincidence, the Post charges, that "Herr von Ribbentrop, Germany's Foreign Minister, was in London at the right moment to take the pulse of the British ministers and to make sure no effective British action need be expected." The newspaper points out, moreover, that "the military occupation of Austria will be followed by an attack on Czechoslovakia in order to clear the eastern route. . . . Assurances to the contrary are worth just as little as have been all the rest of Germany's assurances."

The Yorkshire daily sees only one way to avert the menace—adequate armaments—and argues that "we must see to it that by our example and instigation every country that yet loves liberty or fears for its safety and independence is rallied for a union of common resistance to such aggression as we know to be planned."

The British government's plan to meet the menace, as outlined by Prime Minister Chamberlain in the House of Commons yesterday, is more arms and still more arms. Unhappily, however, the National government, with the largest Conservative parliamentary majority on record, dug the foundations for this policy when it manifested its "complacency" over the seizure of Manchuria by Japan early in 1932. Britain naturally supported the League of Nations acceptance of the famous Lytton report which branded Japan as the culprit. Then there is the case of Italy and Ethiopia, Germany's and Italy's aid to Insurgent General Franco in Spain, the occupation by Hitler of the Rhineland, and other items of the policy of defiance suggested to the dictators by a lethargic British lion.

This is no declaration that Britain was expected to act alone in all these matters. A duty rested squarely on other nations. But her leadership had obviously weakened. The fact remains, however, that the general elections in Great Britain in 1931 and again in 1935—both resulting in overwhelming Conservative victories — were marked by the government's staunch pledge to support the League of Nations.

This, of course, is history; but the consequences of the policy of laissez faire, the gradual submission to dictatorship bluff, are now being paid for. Former Foreign Secretary Eden's resignation was asked for because he wanted the League of Nations to be made to work. He did not like the idea of Britain jumping through the hoop every time Mussolini or Hitler cracked the whip. Mr. Eden, incidentally, fought in the war, knows what war is, and followed a policy which he considered would prevent future chaos and anarchy.

Some Brokers Won't Learn

IN NEW YORK, RICHARD WHITNEY, past president of the great New York Stock Exchange, pleads guilty to grand larceny, admitting security peculations of upwards of a million dollars. Here in British Columbia, James MacGregor, past president of the Vancouver Stock Exchange, and two other brokers, one a former secretary of the exchange, plead guilty to charges of conspiracy to defraud the public and are sentenced to stiff prison terms.

The effect of such cases is to justify governments in their regulatory attempts and to strengthen public opinion in favor of even stricter governmental control of securities dealings. Mr. Whitney during his five years as head of the New York Exchange led the fight on behalf of all exchanges and brokers throughout this continent against government regulations. The collapse of his own firm, the conditions revealed within it, and the confession of his own wrongdoing, will be interpreted as proof that there is not too much, but still too little regulation.

The stock brokerage business can never be foolproof until all brokers are brought around to operating solely on a straight commission basis. Those who do operate strictly on such a basis are never in trouble. Firms licensed as brokers should not be allowed to carry or own securities on their accounts. The sooner governments see the need for such rules, the sooner will the public be protected. Investment is risky enough without having to take additional chances on shaky agents, on those interested in pushing their own holdings at the expense of their clients, or on those who use their clients' credits for their own speculative gains.

British Columbia's Turn

TOMORROW MORNING IN THE Assembly hall of the Parliament Buildings the Royal Commission—Rowell Commission for short—on Dominion-Provincial Relations will begin the hearing of British Columbia's "case." Approximately 200,000 words have been lavished on the preparation of printed arguments, and the whole represents long and exhaustive study by the Prime Minister and his cabinet colleagues. No matter how little or much the province may ultimately benefit from the inquiry, therefore, the material assembled will constitute something in the nature of a standard work on many phases of British Columbia's economic and financial partnership in Confederation.

Although the public at large has a general idea of the scope and purpose of the Rowell Commission, it may be fitting here to set out briefly why it was established, what it will try to do, what it will not do, and what it cannot do. These three points summarize the principal points of reference:

1—That, as a result of things which have come since 1867, the Dominion and Provincial Governments have had to accept responsibilities and to extend governmental services in a way not foreseen at the time of Confederation.

2—That, in seeming consequence of the system provided for us at the time of Confederation, government expenditures are increased by overlapping and duplication of services as between the Dominion and the Provinces; with the public interest injured by a lack of clear delimitation of governmental powers and responsibilities.

3—That representations have been made by the Provinces, and by others, that the existing set-up will not be adequate to meet the economic and social changes and the shifts in economic power now in progress without subjecting the country's governmental structure to undue stress and strain.

In the foregoing the trouble has been diagnosed, from which point the Order-in-Council recites the way to try to obtain a cure, saying that it is "expedient to provide for a re-examination of the economic and financial basis of Confederation" in the light of the new day. That is the Commission's job, and the following may be taken as its general instructions:

1—Look into the revenues now allocated to the Dominion and Provincial Governments, see what it is they are supposed to do with those revenues, see how the system has worked in the past, how it is working now, how it is likely to work in the future.

2—Look into the kind and amount of taxes collected from the public, keeping in mind legal and constitutional limitations, plus financial and economic conditions, and see whether taxation as at present allocated and imposed is as equitable and as efficient as it could be.

3—Look into public expenditures and public debts generally, this to see whether the present division of the burden is fair and likely to be efficient; and to see also just what is the ability of the Dominion and Provincial Governments to do the things they are supposed to do on the basis of their existing powers and functions—and with their existing revenues.

When the Commission has done its job it is asked to make a report about it, and further, to give its opinion about what we could or might do, without upsetting our federal system or impairing national unity, or making too much trouble otherwise, to get a better plan—a fairer, more efficient and cheaper method than we have now.

The chairman of the Commission, Chief Justice Newton Wesley Rowell, is under no illusions about its scope and purpose. He has said: "The Commission's function is purely advisory. What steps are taken after its report is submitted will be the government's responsibilities. The Commission is not concerned with any general overhauling of the British North America Act."

Mr. Rowell and his four colleagues have the assistance of expert economists, versatile technicians, able constitutional authorities, and the cream of the nation's brain power upon which to draw. So that the Commission, after hearing and reading all, ought to be able to tell us what is the matter with us.

HOW MATTERS STAND NOW

From Toronto Star

It is doubtful that the public here senses the degree to which the Chamberlain government has been weakened by its change of foreign policy. Divisions scarcely ever occur in the Commons on foreign policy. Yet on the occasion of Mr. Eden's resignation 168 members of the House voted against the government and more than a score refrained from voting. There is a reason for thinking that a more unfavorable vote would have been recorded if Mr. Eden, himself, had not suggested that the government be given an opportunity to see what it could do.

Popular feeling undoubtedly was strongly in favor of Mr. Eden and nothing that the widely read London papers could say could efface the impression that the nation was being humiliated at the demand of militaristic dictators whose promises were worthless. The Briton's conception of sportsmanship was outraged. He felt that his government was letting down its best friends on the continent and deserting the League, the chief hope of humanity, when it most needed support. The Labor spokesman in parliament warned that a government that flouted the League could not be guaranteed a united nation in a war of the old imperialist type.

Prof. Stewart of Dalhousie University, in his broadcast over the Canadian national network, said: "I know from the letters I have been receiving how deep is the danger that those who want to get free from all entanglements with the old country will exploit this change.. 'Behold,' they tell me, 'Great Britain and Italy and Germany are all [illegible] never again try to persuade us that there is any peculiar British guardianship of [illegible] dom'." But the end of the story is not yet. The British people are sound with respect to these matters and Canadians well might take a lesson from them.

HIGH NOON

A DAILY OCCURRENCE which interests the observer of our local civilization is the phenomenon of noon. If you will listen from a quiet place, you will hear a strange series of sounds at noon. First one whistle blows shrilly. Then, after a pause, a second and a third and a fourth and a fifth, none of them at the same time. What I'd like to know is how the whistle blowers manage. I suspect that only one of them has a watch and the others all depend on him, hanging there, breathless on their whistle cords, waiting for the first man to blow, waiting breathless, wondering if he ever will blow.

Then, at the first peep of the first whistle, the second whistle man pulls his cord, but the next man is more cautious. He waits to make sure. He waits until a third whistle is blowing then, feeling pretty safe, he gives his cord a jerk.

There is another fellow still more canny. He waits for all the other whistles to blow. Then he says to himself, "Well, it looks pretty safe now. I guess it must be about noon, all right," and, with a final reckless gesture he gives the cord a long daring yank. So noon is stretched over two or three minutes.

One of these days somebody is going to give all the whistlemen a dollar watch each and then we'll hear a single terrible blast at noon and there will be no argument about it. It will be noon for certain. But I like the present human system better. There is a touch of your boyhood about the noon whistle, and when city ordinances abolish all whistles, as they will do in time, a lot of pleasant memories will go with them. And one will always remember the whistlemen of Victoria waiting every noon, breathless, waiting for the other fellow to take a chance and blow first. Some day, I fear, none will dare to blow first, every whistleman will wait for the others and there will be no noon at all.

NO END

THE OTHER DAY the picture paper, Life, published a fine set of photographs to show what the government of the United States has got in return for expending some five billion dollars to provide work for unemployed. The list of practical results, from bridges to trout ponds, from roads to negro folk plays, is impressive, and so is the total cost. When, asks Life, is this thing going to end? And boldly it answers that it is never going to end. It is going on and on, and in the immediate future it is going to increase, because 3,000,000 people have lost their jobs in the last few months, during the Roosevelt Recession.

Life's statement is important, not because it is unexpected or surprising, but because no responsible authority has dared too utter the obvious fact in the past. It has been obvious for years that the United States would always have to maintain about a tenth of its people in one way or another out of public funds, but the politicians always said these people would be absorbed into private industry as soon as the depression was over.

The depression ended with millions still on relief and another depression has started with more millions on relief. Yet there are politicians even in Canada who expect to unload the unemployed as soon as conditions get normal. You wonder how long it will take us to wake up and realize that conditions are normal now and were in an abnormal boom up to the seventh of last August, when the stock market crashed.

Government jobs, paid for out of relief moneys, is capitalism's answer to unemployment, Life says. This is probably true, but capitalism will have to find a better way to finance them than by the accumulation of new debt.

HISTORICAL NOTE

A STUDIOUS GENTLEMAN who spends a lot of time in research in the provincial archives came in to see me today with an important piece of historical information. He had found out the true facts about Mr. Shaw's pig. He said he had been delving into the subject for some time in the old files of Victoria newspapers and had discovered that at the first agricultural show ever held in Victoria, Mr. Shaw's pig was so fat that it seemed to go to sleep on the way to the fair. It was judged while asleep and given first prize as the finest and biggest pig ever seen in the Crown colony of British Columbia.

After the prize was awarded, Mr. Shaw found that the pig was not asleep, but dead from obesity. He didn't report this fact to the judges so the dead pig wore the blue ribbon.

The old gentleman who had found out about Mr. Shaw's pig was greatly excited at his discovery and said I ought to be sure to print it. After years of research into our British Columbia history, it was the only interesting thing he had found, and he was sure no one else had ever heard of it. He seemed to think his life work was now complete.

STUDY IN MULISHNESS

From Ottawa Citizen

As an example of pure and unadulterated stubbornness, the case of John Marsh, a carpenter in Cumberland County, Pa., takes the prize.

Marsh won't allow his son, Eugene, to be vaccinated, so every time the lad goes to school the teachers send him home.

When the boy fails to attend school, his father is put in jail for failure to comply with the compulsory school attendance law.

He has served 65 straight five-day terms in jail. Every time he completes one sentence, the school board slaps down another complaint and back to his cell goes Marsh.

The carpenter bases his defiance on the fact that one of his nieces went blind and another died shortly after being vaccinated.

Whether Marsh, the school board, or the judge is more stubborn is debatable. Little Eugene is the goat, of course. He's not getting any education.

1. Indefensible aggression against a peaceful nation which is innocent of any act to justify a war.
2. The demoralization of the Chinese people in the territories now under Japanese control by encouraging the use of narcotics.
3. The revolting conditions in opium dens fostered by the Japanese.
4. The threat against the health and morals of all nations by their illicit traffic in narcotics.
5. The violation of all rules of humane warfare in the destruction of undefended cities, towns and villages.
6. The destruction of the means of subsistence, and eventual death from starvation, of millions of peaceful Chinese.
7. The deliberate inauguration of a reign of terror throughout China to destroy the morals of the Chinese people.
8. The barbarous execution of Chinese prisoners whose only offence is that they defend their country.
9. The merciless massacre of men, women and children.
10. The rape of Chinese women by Japanese savages.

MURDER OF THE STAGE

To the Editor:—Mr. Malcolm Morley, while adjudicating at the Dominion Drama Festival, made some very interesting remarks regarding the murder of the legitimate stage by the powerful moving picture interests.

Our own theatres are fair examples of what has universally taken place, instead of the comparatively active theatre season, which Victorians used to enjoy, the Royal Victoria and the Empire are seldom opened winter or summer.

Something which a large section of the public really liked has been craftily taken from them and instead of joining in the former interest and expectancy of theatre crowds they must now creep silently into dark amusement factories, imbibe the measured portion of mechanical entertainment, and blink quietly out into the light once more.

It is not that we don't appreciate good films, such an idea would be nonsense, but total mechanisation of the drama has been attempted with a very good measure of success. The fight back, however, is in progress; in London and New York the stage has become stronger than ever before. In smaller centres it is only amateur companies who as yet are powerful enough to join the struggle.

With all requisite arts and crafts donated, the production of "Quinney's" at the Empire Theatre Friday and Saturday will nevertheless cost about $400. If actors and technicians salaries had to be added to this amount it would, under existing conditions, represent a financial folly. The Little Theatre Association has faith in the playgoing public, and all fear of a loss on "Quinney's" has been removed by [illegible]

Players, as well as audience, are real, and living effort and error invite aappreciation or criticism.

EINSTEIN AND PADLOCKS

To the Editor: — I have just read that splendid short sketch of Albert Einstein by Bruce Hutchison, in which he refers to him as the greatest thinker of our time.

Every normal person possesses a brain that does a certain amount of thinking, but it would appear that the quality of our mental effort is what really counts. The brains of Hitler, Mussolini, and Franco are doing a lot of overtime work these days, but their thoughts, like those of Napoleon, result in explosion, destruction, untold suffering and loss of innocent life, without giving, in return, any hope of a better world.

A governing body that gives a country like Canada "Padlock Law," denies freedom of speech and the press and burns literature that people must read, to be truly enlightened, is surely the victim of low-grade thinking.

Perhaps Einstein hit upon the true solution (if there is one) to remedy the world's ills, when in a public speech he stated: Carl Marx for the economic, and Jesus or Spinoza for the ethical or spiritual.

BOUQUET FOR QUINNEY'S

To the Editor:—May I congratulate the Little Theatre Association for their fine acting and staging in their rendering of the "Quinney's" last week.

I have witnessed many performances, both amateur and professional in the last 40 years and more, but never have I seen a more beautiful bit of stage-craft than "Quinney's" sanctum. The porcelains, armor, etc., on the walls were so well executed that it was difficult to tell whether they were the real things or not, and the view from the window took me back to Soho.

COLONEL SAYS "HUSH, HUSH"

To the Editor:—The popular voice says we free Britons of B.C. must continue to keep within our coasts upwards of 20,000 slaves, that is, people otherwise entitled to vote, but denied that right of every other native-born free citizen because their skin is dark, because their father or grandfather had the misfortune to be born, not in Europe, not in America, nor even in Africa (black is all right, but not brown), but in Asia—the continent of the "untouchables."

So, though there may be on our lists a few who believe with me that no slave-holding or slave-tolerating nation can long remain great, still, public opinion being what it is, that truth must be kept quiet. Shades of Burke, Cobden, Wilberforce, Bright, Gladstone look on my country's plight! Has the Church of England in Canada come to such a pass in her democratic parliament, the synod, that she no longer will permit discussion of burning questions openly, without warning reporters for secrecy? Must it always be "Hush, hush! That is not the popular view"; or "His lordship thinks that, as Australia, so Canada must be kept a 'white-man's country'?"

That can never be, for the destinies of my Canada are in higher hands than his—hands of an Almighty who has said (free translation): "Lo I have made of one blood all peoples for to dwell together in peace and fellowship on all the face of my whole earth; let them go out into this my world, replenish and subdue it; let them live and mingle freely, in love and friendship, black and white, yellow and red."

Look at the synod of New Westminster, sitting concurrently with that of Columbia. The quality of mercy is not strained, and on that layout Vancouver put one over on Victoria.

It is suggested that the Victoria Synod Hall be now rechristened "The Star Chamber."

CITY TO HAVE PARADE QUEEN

Junior Chamber of Commerce Will Hold Contest For Summer Celebrations

A queen contest will be held by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the parades which it will stage in July and August.

Norman Foster, secretary, made the announcement this morning following a meeting between the Junior Chamber and the celebration committee of the city on Saturday.

Arrangements for the queen contest will begin shortly. Various organizations in town will be asked to sponsor candidates.

A trip to the Golden Gate World Fair at San Francisco is expected to be the prize for the successful candidate. There will be many other awards.

The Junior Chamber will emphasize floral effects in their parades this year.

Ald. Gadsden To Welcome Aimee

After several aldermen had excused themselves by saying they would be out of town on the occasion, Alderman Burges J. Gadsden was named as the city representative to introduce Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, internationally known evangelist, to the Victoria public when she speaks next Friday from the stage of the Empire Theatre.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar was first selected for the job.

"I'm going to protest against this. I don't think any member of the council should be appointed," he declared.

"I'll appoint Alderman Adam. I can't hear very well or I'd introduce her myself," the Mayor said.

Alderman Adam said he would be out of town.

Alderman Archie Wills and W. Lloyd Morgan declined, claiming other engagements that evening.

Alderman Gadsden was named.

"No, I wouldn't mind if it were in the City Temple, but I don't approve of religious services in a theatre," he declared. He finally capitulated.

"All Right. I'll put it over in great style and I want all the aldermen to attend," he said.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today

MARCH 15, 1913

(From the Times Files)

It is proposed to lay before the Minister of Railways a formal complaint on behalf of the city as to the service given by the British Columbia Electric Railway, and to urge that the street car facilities should be improved in the public interest, and that failing action by the company the Legislature should be asked to amend the franchise to compel an alteration of conditions. In a brief comment on the matter, the mayor thought that the trouble arose from insufficiency of plant and a desire on the part of the company to make the service productive of large profits.

Seventeen tons of chairs arrived in Victoria this week for the new Dominion moving picture theatre, which is rapidly nearing completion on Yates Street.

Next Sunday will be blue Sunday in Victoria. Chief Langley announced this morning that the Lord's Day Act will be enforced. Selling of cigars, refreshments, bread, milk and newspapers in the streets, in stands, hotels and stores, will be prohibited.

Much activity is now to be witnessed at Ogden Point, the scene of the new breakwater. Heavy blasting is being done and a great quantity of rock has been removed. When the breakwater is completed, in about three years' time, Victorians will be able to promenade out on this great stretch of concrete.

The council of the city has many times in the past concerned itself with the grant of Beacon Hill Park from the crown to the city council as trustees of the Douglas bequest, and the subject came up again last evening over the problem of allowing concerts, other than the band of the Fifth Regiment, to be held in the park. The parks committee, through Alderman Dilworth, reported against permission being granted to an application for entertainments. Aldermen Gleason and Cuthbert urged that the council should do everything in its power to provide for innocent amusement.

Pearson Favors Longer Sessions

Labor Minister Would Have Legislature Take More Time at Work

NANAIMO (CP)—Hon. C. S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, told a Liberal Party meeting here last night to watch the sittings of the Rowell Commission opening in Victoria next Wednesday, when the provincial government will submit its brief on Dominion-provincial relations.

The minister said he believed the coast province should not be tied up too closely with Ottawa on some matters, and said he thought the Dominion was infringing on British Columbia's revenue sources, mainly through income tax collections.

He said he believed the relief problem should be a Dominion responsibility, and so should the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Mr. Parson discussed bills passed or amended at the last session of the British Columbia legislature, saying legislation establishing collective bargaining was a step in the right direction.

The labor minister added he thought provincial legislative sessions should be longer. If they were, better and more far-reaching legislation would be brought down.

He said the past year was excellent for mining with production more than $75,000,000 and predicted lumbering would pick up in the near future.

He hoped for clearer sailing for coal mining although the clear winter had curtailed sales considerably.

The meeting was presided over by Peter Inkster, vice-president of the Nanaimo Liberal Association.

B.C. Enlarges Forest Reserve

Government Adds 2,575 Square Miles to Perpetual Timber Area

Another 2,575 square miles of British Columbia forest land was added today to the steadily-growing system of provincial forest reserves.

By cabinet order the Upper Arrow Forest with 1,865 square miles of timber land, was set aside in the Kootenay district. On the coast the Kingcome Forest was established with 710 square miles.

Like other provincial forests dotted around in the timber districts these areas are set aside for the perpetual growing of timber, part of the government's plan to establish a permanent yield of timber. The land is declared unsuitable for agricultural or settlement purposes.

Exclusive of the two new forests set aside today the government now has 15 provincial forests in the coast area covering 4,667,350 acres and containing 41,759,800,000 feet of mature timber, and 24 forests in the interior covering 10,648,300 acres with a total of 21,032,870,000 feet of mature timber.

Fairfield Choir In Fine Recital

The well-trained choir of Fairfield United Church gave much pleasure to a large congregation at the twilight recital at the Baptist Church Sunday afternoon.

Miss Isabelle Pike directed the choir in several well-rendered anthems.

Miss Adeline Sangster, one of the city's rising young singers, was heard in the favorite old-time solo, "Abide With Me," and also sang in a trio with Misses Connie Barlow and Phyllis Clarke. Miss Barlow sang "There Were Ninety and Nine" as a solo.

Robert Husband sang "Father, Guide Our Nation." Mrs. J. T. Keating and Mrs. Percy Richards took the solo parts in the anthems, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and "The Voice of Singing." Miss Estelle Clarke took the solo in the anthem, "Comes At Times a Stillness."

Small Reductions Made in City Budget Last Night; Query Surplus Item

Delving briefly into estimates while awaiting a statement from the school board on its budget, the City Council last night effected a net reduction of $1,905 in penny departmental savings in its 1938 expenditure draft.

In committee the council started out by increasing two votes and then lowered others.

The publicity bureau grant was left at $20,000, the same as last year, after Mayor Andrew McGavin has asked the committee if it could not reduce it by $5,000. Alderman W. L. Morgan, leading the support for the vote, stated the bureau had asked for $25,000 this year.

A vote for miscellaneous items in the assessor-collector's department, formerly cut to $100, was restored to the original figure of $200.

An additional $600 was added to the land department salary estimate to cover wages of a new junior assistant.

A motion was advanced to offset the increase by reducing the lands advertising vote from $1,000 to $400. The question was stood over for later consideration.

The sum of $100 for extra help was deleted.

Stores accounts were cut $15 to $35 for stationery and printing. Miscellaneous estimates for stores were lowered by a like amount to $35.

PASS LIBRARY VOTE

Turning to the library vote the committee left it unchanged at a total of $34,405.

In the market maintenance section the fuel account was cut $40 to $300, and $25 was taken from the miscellaneous account.

The vote for Aged and Infirm Men's Home, higher than last year on account of rising living costs, was cut by a gross $200 to $11,533.52.

In the general miscellaneous accounts the committee reduced by $10 its telegram and messenger service vote to $100. The telephone account was lowered $50 to $3,500. The insurance estimate was passed at $6,150, against expenditure of $6,350.91 last year. Another $100 was taken from the account for funerals and insane.

Consideration of the $3,100 for taxes payable outside the city was stood over.

Allowances for May 24, Dominion Day and Navy Week were stood over in the absence of the celebration chairman, Alderman Ed. Williams.

The miscellaneous not detailed account of $4,000 was approved after debate. The contingent fund of a like amount was stood over.

CUT SUPERANNUATION

The superannuation item was cut $2,000 to $43,000.

Consideration of the relief estimate of $95,000 was tabled following the suggestion it be struck out. It would not be enough under the new rulings, D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller, said.

The B.C. Electric franchise estimate was also stood over. The figure was put at $5,500 in the draft.

The intermunicipal committee vote of $50 was cut out.

Alderman Archie Wills suggested the item of $259,000 for debt retirement be reduced. He did not think it fair to cut other services to the bone and pass an amount equivalent to eight mills for debt retirement.

The $259,000 figure included the $109,000 surplus from last year, credited in the receipt section of the budget. The item was left for further consideration.

Describes Visit In New York City

Interesting sidelights on a night spent in New York's hot spots were told to members of the Gyro Club at luncheon yesterday by Art Christopher, who recently returned from a trip down the Pacific Coast, through the Panama Canal and up to the big town.

Mr. Christopher said he was greatly impressed by the heavy traffic on New York streets, the view from the top of the Empire State Building and the general grandeur of the metropolis.

The Empire State Building, the largest in the world, was 1,248 feet high and had 6,400 windows. It contained seven miles of elevator shafts. There were 63 passenger and four freight elevators in the building.

As a visitor to New York, he was one of the 1,500,000 visitors that were in the city each day.

R. L. Challoner was in the chair in the absence of the president, Everett Taylor.

The monthly general meeting of Naval Veterans' Branch No. 42 of the Canadian Legion will be held in the clubrooms on Friday evening at 8.

Question Funds For St. Joseph's

Special $1,800 Figure Placed in City Estimates For Emergency Cases

After some debate the City Council last night decided to place in its estimates draft a sum of $1,800 to provide for payment to St. Joseph's Hospital on account of emergency cases, on the basis of 70 cents per patient day.

Alderman W. L. Morgan, finance committee chairman, stated the inclusion of that figure in the estimates was needed since under new hospital regulations cases could not be paid for as they occurred, a practice followed in the past.

Alderman Archie Wills pressed for an explanation of the type of case for which the money was to be paid. Those able to pay themselves would meet their bills and indigents should be taken to the Jubilee Hospital, he felt.

Alderman John A. Worthington, health committee chairman, supported by the mayor, stated emergency cases were taken to the closest hospital on the orders of the doctor. Lists of those cared for in that way were submitted monthly by St. Joseph's authorities to the city medical health officer who determined whether or not the city should make the payment, Alderman Worthington said.

D. A. Macdonald, comptroller, stated the costs had been paid out of the $9,000 general budget vote for hospitals other than the Jubilee in former years.

Alderman B. J. Gadsden raised question over Isolation facilities, suggesting St. Joseph's was receiving consideration in view of the fact it was the only place where meningitis cases could be isolated.

Georgian Choir To Give Program

Miss Dorothy Francis and Miss Patricia Williams, well-known violin concert artists, have been secured by Georgian Choristers to play the obbligato for the choral rendition of Sir Edward Elgar's "The Snow," which will form one of the feature numbers on the program to be given in the Fairfield United Church on March 25, in aid of the church funds.

The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Georgina Watt, has prepared an excellent program of choral, trio and ensemble numbers for the occasion. Fred Wright, baritone, will be the guest artist, while the Haydn quartette will render a group of string selections.

The concert is being sponsored by the board of stewards of the Fairfield United Church, and tickets can be obtained from members of the choir or church.

Advising a knife rack for the kitchen, a Cornell bulletin on "Development of a Successful Kitchen" pointsout that knives are dulled more by contact with other metal than by actual use.

HEALTH NOT DEPENDENT UPON MEDICINE

No doctor uses medicine to keep himself and his patients well. Health depends upon the individual's habits—so, largely, do sickness and disease. Constipation, food fermentation, food putrefaction, all result from wrong foods and feeding habits. These throw irritants into the blood. Colds and certain diseases are nature's way of eliminating these life-destroying irritants from the blood. But we can avoid these conditions in the food canal and thus avoid the blood irritants, the sickness, colds, etc.

Dr. Robt. G. Jackson at eighty defies old age, fatigue, colds, aches, pains, constipation, disease, or any physical or mental let-down. He relies upon proper foods—plenty of raw vegetables and fruits, Roman Meal, Bekus-Puddy or Lishus, and his only beverage is Kofy-Sub, very rich in blood-making and resistance-building iron. These foods work "miracles" in the constipated and those below par from any cause. Remember, Roman Meal is so easy to prepare—cooks in three to five minutes; if you prefer it softer just set off fire, covered, for an extra twenty minutes. A two week's trial is the best possible proof. Write ROBT. G. JACKSON, M.D., 577 Vine Ave., Toronto, for valuable free health literature.

Want Economics Chair at U.B.C.

Support to the petition being made by the Provincial Parent-Teacher Federation asking the Provincial Government to re-establish the home economics degree course at the University of British Columbia, was given by the James Bay P.-T.A. at its recent meeting. Mrs. G. Ingledew presided.

The resolution recalled that the course had been established in 1931 and temporarily suspended in 1933 on the plea of economy, with the result that today the U.B.C. was the only large university in Canada not offering such a degree course, and graduates desiring to train as home economics teachers were forced to go elsewhere. Reference was also made to the fund of $14,000 raised by the women of the province for the chair of home economics, and that, "as women constituted 51 per cent of the voters of the province, their voice should be heard and their interests recognized."

Copies of the resolution are being forwarded to members of the government and of the governors of the university.

Birthday of City Duly Honored

Douglas Chapter I.O.D.E. Held Luncheon In Commemoration

About 150 guests, including representatives of many of the pioneer families of the city, yesterday joined in the celebration of the founding of Victoria on March 14, 1843, by the landing at Clover Point of James Douglas, chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Company.

The occasion was the luncheon arranged by the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter I.O.D.E. in accordance with annual custom, and Mrs. A. S. Christie, the regent, presided. Special welcome was tendered to Mrs. R. B. McMicking, a pioneer and honorary regent of the chapter.

Mr. J. B. Munro, the guest speaker, paid tribute to the sterling qualities of James Douglas, the "grand old man who in 1843 started agriculture in British Columbia." The speaker then proceeded to describe some of the early attempts at farming here, recalling that Captain Cook had left cattle, sheep and hogs in the Hawaiian Islands during his visit there, this being the basis of stock brought many years later to Vancouver Island, among the early importers from this course being Rev. R. J. Staines.

Clover Point, where James Douglas landed, was named after the heavy crop of native clover, Mr. Munro noted, and he told of the primitive implements used by the early settlers. Reference was also made to the old Douglas Farm, in what is now the Fairfield district, and of which no landmarks have been preserved, the speaker lamented.

Alderman James Adam brought greetings from the city, in the absence of the Mayor, and Bruce A. McKelvie conveyed greetings from the Native Sons of British Columbia.

Rev. J. E. Bell said grace, Mrs. Bertha Parsons was general convener of the affair and, with Miss Ilace Terry, thanked the speakers and helpers, and Mrs. J. Shaw was at the receipt of custom.

The head table was attractively decorated in red, white and blue, and an historic touch was found in the place-cards picturing the old paddle-wheeler Beaver, Miss Pillar and Miss Josephine Crease being responsible for these details.

Chapter Elects Its Committee Heads

The sum of $50 was voted for secondary education by the Navy League Chapter, at its monthly meeting held last night at headquarters with Mrs. T. A. Johnston, regent, in the chair. To the Rainbow Sea Cadets $25 was voted and a donation of $5 made to an ex-service man's family. The Junior Central High School received the "Best Citizenship Prize" of the National Geographic Magazine.

Mrs. Johnston was appointed provincial delegate to the provincial annual meeting, to be held next month. One new member, Mrs. Gerald Ritchie, was welcomed.

Conveners of standing committees for the following year were appointed as follows: Child welfare, Mrs. Peacock; soldiers and ex-service men, Mrs. C. W. Plumb; films, Mrs. T. A. Johnston; press, Miss Geraldine Kent, and Navy League, Mrs. R Shanks.

Scottish Concert At First Church

Tomorrow night at the First United Church Sunday schoolroom a Scottish concert will be given, the first part consisting of vocal solos an numbers by the choir and the second part comprising scenes from the life of Rob Roy.

Following is the programme: Chorus (a) "Soon the Sun Will Gae to Rest," (b) "Ye Banks and Braes"; solo, "The Cameron Men," George Humeston; solo, "Ae Fond Kiss," Mrs. Charles Goodwin; chorus, (a) "Can Ye Sew Cushions," (b) "The Lad That Wears the Plaidie"; solo, "My Ain Folk," Miss Carol Menzies; solo, "Annie Laurie," James Petrie; solo, "The Scottish Bluebells," Mrs. W. H. Wilson; chorus, (a) "Hail to the Chief," (b) "A Highland Lad."

Taking part in the play will be Mrs. W. Wright, J. McN. Paterson, W. C. Fyfe, Dave McMillan, John Bell, Neil Perry and James Loudoun.

DOUGLAS STREET Y.P.S.

The young people of the Douglas Street Baptist Society are asked to meet at the church at 7.45 tonight for a short devotional period, after which they will pay a visit to the Palm Dairies.

Popular Pair Wed Last Night

McCulloch-Abbott Nuptials Held At Fairfield United

Daffodils, plum blossoms and pussy willow graced the Fairfield United Church last night for the wedding at 8.30 of Gladys Ethel Jane, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Abbott, 121 Moss Street, to Mr. George William McCulloch, only son of Mrs. G. A. McCulloch, 15 Cambridge Street, and the late Mr. McCulloch. An arch of greenery and daffodils, with traditional wedding bell, was placed before the altar and the guest pews were marked with posies of violets and heather, tied with white satin ribbon. Rev. N. J. Crees officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white bridal satin, the soft neckline caught with rows of satin buttons and the long tight sleeves with slight cuffs at the wrist. Her veil of illusion net was cap-shaped, held in place with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of pink rosebuds, carnations and narcissi.

Miss Jeanette Stark, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor in turquoise blue net over taffeta. A coronet of tiny pink and blue flowers circled her hair, and her bouquet was of pink carnations and blue iris. The bridesmaid, Miss Rita Morris, wore pale pink taffeta with full skirt and heart-shaped bodice, topped with a fitted jacket, a wreath of matching flowers in her hair, and carried pink carnations and blue iris.

Twin sisters of the bride, the little Misses Ruth and Lorraine Abbott were winsome flower girls in peach taffeta, with pretty ribbons in their hair, and carrying colonial bouquets. Mr. Archie McAllister was groomsman, and Mr. George Ford, cousin of the groom, and Mr. Harry Walker, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

During the ceremony, the full choir of Fairfield United Church sang the hymn "O Perfect Love," and while the register was being signed Mr. Fred Glendenning sang the solo, "I Love You Truly."

At the reception at the home of the groom, Mrs. Lawrence Abbott received the guests in a model gown of Dubonnet lace, with black hat and accessories, and was assisted by Mrs. B. M. McCulloch in a green lace ensemble, with black. Both wore corsage bouquets of pink carnations and violets.

During the evening Mr. Glendenning sang several solos. A buffet supper was served, the three-tiered wedding cake holding the place of honor on the bride's table. The Misses R. Well, D. Blair, V. Bell, D. Bell, E. Young, A. McKenzie, K. Hindson, Rose Webb and Helen Johnson, assisted in serving.

Among the many gifts was an electric clock from the groom's associates at the Capitol Theatre, a table lamp from the Sunday school and teachers, silver flower basket from the choir, silver cream, sugar and tray from the Young People's Society and silver salt and pepper from the C.G.I.T., all of Fairfield United Church, where the bride and groom are popular members.

For their wedding trip to Vancouver and the United States, the bride chose a two-piece swagger in beige and brown heather tweed, with beaver collar, brown felt hat in Spanish mode and matching accessories. They will make their home in Victoria.

Among the out of town guests were Mrs. George Murray and Mrs. E. B. Arnett of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. R. Evans of Duncan, and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Simister, Sidney, V.I.

An Orphanage But No Orphans

MONTREAL (CP)—An orphanage since 1870, the Montreal Protestant Infants' Home now is orphanless. Owing to a change in policy of the institution, not a single child is in residence there.

Mrs. Muriel B. McCrea, in charge of the home, explained the aim now is to place each child in a foster home, rather than house them in groups. "Every one of us wants to be wanted, and wants to be loved, by some particular person, and for that reason we believe that the foster-home plan is the ideal one, she said. So far, attempts to place the children have been 100 per cent successful.

Not every family that applies for a child is allowed to take one, Mrs. McCrea said. Conditions in prospective foster homes are carefully investigated. Fortunately, there are a great many more good homes wanting children than there are infants available for adoption.

Where a child is not legally adopted, it is customary for the institution to pay $15 a month towards its expenses. Though in a few cases children are boarding free, Mrs. McCrea said the former plan was preferable because "usually persons who take children on the "no-pay" basis are looking for something from them in the way of work."

Commons Now Is to Speed Up

OTTAWA (CP)—A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox - Alberni, made a one-man stand Monday against the government depriving ordinary members of their days of priority in the House of Commons, but failed when Prime Minister King's motion taking Wednesdays for government business beginning March 23, was adopted.

Tomorrow will be the last full day on which private members' resolutions will have priority.

Mr. Neill argued the democratic principles under which members are sent to Parliament should assure their being heard, and the government with its majority should not be permited thus to prevent the members ventilating their views.

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, opposition leader, agreed with Mr. King members had full opportunity to air their views.

Canadian Daughters' League, Assembly No. 5, will meet at the K. of C. Hall, Government Street, Thursday at 6.30 p.m., when a banquet will be held in honor of the provincial president, Mrs. A. C. Ross, who is making her official visit. The regular meeting will follow at 7.30. A cordial invitation is extended to any visiting Canadian Daughters to be present.

Miss E. Braund, graduate of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, who is at present taking post-graduate work at the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, is the winner of the 1938 bursary of $100 awarded by the Jubilee Hospital Alumnae Association.

Announcement to this effect was made at the annual meeting of the Alumnae held last night at the nurses' home, Mrs. J. H. Russell, the president, in the chair. Mrs. W. C. Wilson was made a life member of the Alumnae in appreciation of her interest and assistance in the work of the organization.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. J. H. Russell was re-elected president by acclamation; first vice-president, Miss R. Kirkendale; second vice-president, Mrs. G. M. Duncan; secretary, Miss V. Freeman; assistant secretary, Miss E. Rossiter; treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Dowell; social convener, Mrs. C. Daniels; visiting convener, Miss Newman; press secretary, Miss M. Dickson. Mr. L. S. V. York was re-appointed auditor.

The annual report showed that the roster of members is now 123, an increase of 41 over last year. The $75 pledge to the Florence Nightingale Memorial Fund was completed by means of a donation of $15. Donations had been made to the annual linen shower of the Senior W.A.; the Alumnae Ward in the hospital had been decorated and gifts presented to the patients at Christmas; financial assistance had been given to sick members by means of the Sick Nurses' Assistance Fund; new furniture had been purchased for the Nurses' Home waiting room, which was furnished by the Alumnae.

The annual bursary was awarded to Miss E. Copeland, who is taking the public health course at the University of British Columbia. The various social and money-making functions were also reviewed in the report.

Plans were made for the annual reunion dinner to be held on May 2 at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, at which Miss Lena Mitchell and the graduating class will be the guests. Arrangements were also made for a flannel dance in June.

At the close of business, refreshments were served.

Esquimalt Wins Junior Honors

Esquimalt last night cinched the lower island junior boys' basketball honors when they defeated Ladysmith, 34 to 30, in the final game of the home-and-home series in the Esquimalt Athletic Association Hall.

The dockers took the first game in the up-island city, 28 to 27, and won the series, 62 to 57. The winners will now prepare for a two-game series with Nanaimo for the island championship.

Jordan River defeated Esquimalt, 25 to 21, in the final game of the Saanich and Suburban League senior series.

Teams and scores follow:

Streamlined Nails Latest

When it comes to streamlining, Ethel Shutta, songstress, has the subject right at her finger tips. Her polished fingernails show a slant-curved cut—streamlined to the right on one hand and to the left on the other. It is no easy matter to trim one's nails in this ultra-modern fashion, but Ethel says the result is worth the effort.

Woman Guide Excels At Cooking

Saint John Girl Presides At Flap-jack Contest

NEW YORK (CP) — Miss L. MacDonald of Saint John, who would rather shoot deer than cook them, made her New York debut as "the only licensed woman guide in New Brunswick," at the annual Sportsman's Show, presiding over a flapjack-tossing contest. She has hunted since the age of 14 and can bring down a deer at 60 paces.

Miss McDonald came here with her brothers' "outfit," Sandy's Diamond Guides. However, her main capacity back at the hunting camp is home-cooking—"sportsmen do love home-made bread!"—But she aspires to be known for her prowess with rod and gun. "I have a perfectly good license," she added, "just like the men's."

"What do I do? Well, sometimes I go out with a sport—that's our word for sportsman—and we step along very quietly for four or five hours. You can't make a sound when you're hunting. And maybe after a while we get tired, and we stop and I build a fire and make some tea. I have to carry the lunch—that's part of being the guide. The sport carries the gun. Then we walk three or four hours more, and maybe we get a deer. Then we walk back to camp and send the boys to bring in the deer.

"It is hard work—hunting," continued the petite miss, "but it's all we live for. From April to November we are in the woods. Sometimes we come to New York in the winter for a vacation."

She had no difficulty in obtaining her license. Two persons, she said, had to testify she was familiar with the woods and qualified to accompany non-resident hunters.

Cedar Hill P.-T.A. will hold its monthly meeting at the school tomorrow evening at 8, when an address will be given by A. Sullivan, inspector of high schools. The meeting is open to anyone interested.

Intermediates Give Program

The intermediate branch of the Musical Art Society held its monthly recital Saturday evening. Hugh Ramsay presided and Mrs. R. D. McCaw and Mrs. T. W. A. Gray attended as representatives of the parent organization.

The first part of the programme was devoted to Beethoven. Frances Lifton gave a paper on his life and works and several of his pianoforte compositions were played by Quentin Lake, Ursula Hills and Frank Moore.

In the second half of the programme, devoted to various other composers, pianoforte solos were contributed by Maude Renouf, Edythe Drake, Helen Kent, Phyllis Maddock, Myrtle Brent, and a violin solo by Hilda Newton, accompanied by Mrs. Foote.

The Burnside Parent-Teacher Association will hold a card game tomorrow evening at 8. Progressive 500 will be played.

Baron and Fiancee

When beautiful Kay Francis of the movies, top photo, announced in Hollywood that she would take Baron Raven Erik Barnekow, young German nobleman, as her fifth husband, she said he is "tallish, blondish, youngish." You can see how well she described him from his picture above. Kay's other husbands were William Gaston, John Meehan, F. Dwight Francis and Kenneth MacKenna.

Supply Arms But Talk of Peace

Chinese Speaker Is Critical Of Such Inconsistency

Conditions in China were described in vivid and interesting manner by Joseph Hope before the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club at their supper meeting, held last night at Terry's. The president, Mrs. A. Longley, presided.

Mr. Hope touched upon the historical background of the two countries and the factors contributing to the Sino-Japanese conflict, and pointed out that the conflict was one not only of armed forces, but of wills. On the one hand was Japan's ambition to dominate the whole of the east, and on the other China's strong determination to withstand the aggressor and to preserve her own independence.

Reference was made to the progress and development of China, the last decade having seen greater changes than at any period in her history. After speaking of her peace-loving proclivities and relations with other nations, he touched upon the inconsistent attitude of those countries which, while expressing disapproval of war from a moral standpoint, yet support it economically by supplying arms to the belligerents.

Mrs. M. Hall thanked the speaker, and Miss Barbara Dawson gave pleasure with her singing of two solos.

B.C. Marketing Board Attacked

LADNER, B.C. (CP)—A vote of non-confidence in the British Columbia Coast Vegetable Marketing Board was passed at a stormy meeting of potato growers here Monday. The meeting also called for resignation of all members of the board.

Purpose of the gathering, called by the board, was to consider protests against quotas set for potato growers.

Arthur Swenson, chairman of the board, presided for a time, but later withdrew in favor of Robert Reynolds, a grower who was elected by the meeting.

RETIRE FIVE ON PENSION

Veteran Workers to Be Placed on Superannuation By City Shortly

Superannuation of five city employees, four at the end of May and one at the end of July, was approved by the City Council last night on the recommendation of the finance committee.

The people concerned are Adam Ross, caretaker, Goldstream Watershed; Miss M. W. Hardie, matron at the Isolation Hospital; G. Garland and W. Cavett of the fire department, and W. Nightingale, janitor at the library. The last mentioned will end his services with the city July 31.

A recommendation was made that E. Oliver, formerly of the street lighting department be considered for the library post.

On the same committee's recommendation decision was reached to establish a $10 inspection fee for overhead advertising banners in the city. Payment of $58.50 dues to the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities was approved and an invitation was ordered sent to the federation to hold its next annual meeting in Victoria.

Action on payment of part of the city's debt to the Bank of Montreal was left in the hands of the mayor to discuss with the Board of Debt Retirement Trustees.

APPEAL MADE BY RED CROSS

Funds and Clothing Needed to Take Care of Destitute in China

An appeal for additional funds and clothing for Chinese left destitute by the war, is being made by the Canadian Red Cross Society.

"In the Great War," the appeal points out, "we at least had the consolation of knowing all the most modern resources of medical and nursing science were immediately placed at the disposal of the sick and wounded.

"In China, on the other hand, we are viewing one of the most terrible spectacles which the human mind can ever conjure, acute human suffering on a colossal scale with practically no medical resources whatever.

"One hundred and fifty mission hospitals look to us for the support which will let them expand 10 to 20 times their normal capacity."

At the outbreak of hostilities the International Red Cross Committee at Geneva offered its services simultaneously to the Chinese and Japanese Red Cross Societies. Japan replied, thanking the International Committee for its offer, but intimating it had adequate means to meet present requirements. China accepted the offer with deep gratitude, stating outside help was desperately needed.

As a result of this information all National Societies in each country were asked by the International Committee to make national appeals.

In Canada the Red Cross Society in co-operation with religious bodies, set up a joint committee in Toronto with Sir Henry Drayton as chairman. Appeals have since been made throughout the Dominion. The response has been good, but not sufficient to meet the ever-increasing demands of the work. Additional subscriptions, no matter how small, will be welcomed by the society.

Subscriptions may be made in Victoria through Hugh Birch Jones, B.C. commissioner of the society, at 519 Belmont House.

City Council Briefs

Two sales and two orders for demolition of dilapidated premises were approved by the City Council last night on the recommendation of the lands committee. The sales included lots on the south side of David Street, between Gorge Road and Rock Bay, and on the west side of Cook Street, between North Park Street and Caledonia Avenue. Prices were $250 and $400, respectively. The demolitions included the old dwelling at 2903 Cook Street and 3108 Mars Street. The latter was recommended by the sanitary engineer following a survey of the Finlayson Road-Mars Street area, where several Hindus have residence.

A building board of appeal, composed of Mayor Andrew McGavin, Alderman Ed. Williams and J. A. Worthington and the city engineer and fire chief, representing the city, as well as delegates from the Victoria Builders' Exchange and the Victoria Branch of the B.C. Architectural Institute, was appointed by the council last night. The Builders' Exchange was also asked to name a member to act on the plumbing board of examiners. Approval was given the public works committee's recommendations to grant Oak Bay an easement for a drainage project through the Willows exhibition grounds, to remove a section of crumbling wall overhanging Craigflower Road and to construct a crushed rock sidewalk at a cost of $136 on the north side of that road, from Arm Street to Sunnyside Avenue.

James E. Doherty was appointed on probation to the city fire department staff on the recommendation of the fire wardens.

In spite of question over policy, the City Council tabled the only tender it received yesterday for a new automatic stop-and-go traffic light, pending reception of another bid. The one received was not opened. Alderman James Adam asked if that action could be taken. The mayor noted all other traffic lights in the city were those of the Northern Electric Company. Alderman Alex Peden asked the mayor where the council would stand on future tenders if it took that action with the traffic light.

The City Council had no control over the type of labor engaged by logging companies operating on city watersheds, it was informed last night. The question arose when a protest was read from the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council objecting to the employment of Japanese at low wages. The mayor suggested the protest should be sent to the provincial government, not the city. It was something that would bear looking into, Alderman Alex Peden noted. The council decided to bring the matter to the attention of Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor. Later in the meeting Alderman Archie Wills asked if the city could take any action on the issue before approving a logging road sought by Kapoor interests on the watershed. There was nothing in the city's agreement with the company to cover labor, H. S. Pringle, city solicitor, stated.

Duties and other levies charged against equipment brough in from the United States would make the costs of an aerial ladder truck from a firm in that country prohibitive, Alderman Archie Wills told the City Council last night following reading of a letter received from a Los Angeles concern by Alderman B. J. Gadsden.

A protest from the South Vancouver Island Dairyman's Association regarding favorable mention by Dr. Richard Felton of the benefits of pasteurization in milk was referred by the council to the health committee for a report.

The request of the Central Exchange for reconsideration by the city of its decision to make no grant to that organization was referred to the finance and relief committees. The mayor commented no grant would be made to the Exchange, since it was included in the Community Chest list of beneficiaries.

Votes of condolence were passed to the relatives of the late ex-Alderman W. J. Mable and the late Robert Hetherington.

British Raise Palestine Quota

LONDON (AP)—The British government Monday announced an increase of approximately 25 per cent in the Jewish immigration quota for Palestine, now restricted to 8,000 persons annually.

JAPAN SEIZED OPPORTUNITY

Rev. W. G. Sheppard Gives Opinion on Sino-Japanese Conflict

Japan had to strike at China when she did for if she had waited another five years it would have been too late, said Rev. W. G. Sheppard in an address to the Victoria Branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society at its annual meeting in Metropolitan United Church schoolroom last night.

Mr. Sheppard spent 40 years in China and for many years served as general secretary of the society with headquarters at Shanghai. He is now en route to England following his retirement 10 months ago.

Since the political revolution in China in 1911 the country had gradually adjusted itself to the new government, Mr. Sheppard said. The revolution was followed by 10 years of chaos but latterly there had been steady progress with new leaders rising to the fore. In view of these developments Japan could have waited no longer than she did in striking, he said.

The current events in the Orient might be a prelude to a conflict which would ultimately involve the white and yellow races, he continued. China's resistance, however, might prove the factor in averting the conflict.

DIFFERENCES SHOWN

Dealing with the similarities and dissimilarities of the two nations, Mr. Sheppard said although they were alike in geographic location, ancient civilizations and food and basic industries, there was wide difference in their temperaments.

One of China's greatest gifts was its national literature. The people held highest respect for scholars but little admiration for the soldiers. Japan differed on this score since her military leaders were the national leaders. He pointed out that military conquests of China in the past had perished when the character and culture of the Chinese survived.

Speaking of the Bible Society's work in China, Mr. Sheppard said one of its greatest accomplishments had been the translation of the Bible into Chinese. There were now more Bibles sold in China than any other country on earth, he said.

OFFICERS NAMED

Officers of the Victoria branch were named at the meeting, the election following the address. Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick was re-elected president and R. S. Niven was named treasurer, John Goldie, secretary, and the following members of the executive committee were named: T. W. Bird, W. T. Straith, M.P.P., G. F. Waites, D. D. Muir, and E. G. Paddon. Arthur Lee was elected honorary president and all active ministers and clergy were selected honorary vice-presidents.

The financial report was presented by R. G. Howell, who retired as treasurer and secretary after 15 years in the former post and four years in the latter position. Mr. Howell reported $375.24 paid over to the provincial body. Contributions from the local branch had decreased in recent years while other branches of the province had increased their givings, he said.

More Complaints On Island Roads

Following are extracts from answers to questionnaires sent out by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau to tourists visiting here last summer:

"Road north from Nanaimo poor."

"I found highways in very poor condition and shall not plan another trip to the island until they are much improved. The lugs on every wheel of my car were shaken loose to the point of making driving very dangerous."

"The highway signs could be improved."

"People were very gracious about giving directions — which invariably proved wrong."

"No complaints."

"It was like London and Hongkong to me."

"The boat service on holidays could be improved."

"Main highway was in frightful condition. Logging trucks should be denied highway except at certain hours."

"Boat on which we crossed was overcrowded."

"No time to enjoy scenery, due to road hazards."

"Nothing occurred to mar a very enjoyable sojourn on the island."

"No—Victoria is quite perfect as it is. Don't try to improve it. Your tourists go there because it never changes."

CIVIL SERVICE IS DISCUSSED

Norman Baker Tells New Forum Club About Government Workers

"The civil servant is not appreciated by the majority of the public," said Norman Baker, B.C. civil service superannuation commissioner, at a meeting of the New Forum Club held in the Y.W.C.A. last evening. "And," he went on, "the civil service is largely created through the public's interest in community life."

The speaker pointed out that the public needed a better understanding of the value of the civil service for the community on a whole because it was the medium through which the government carried out its ideas. The public was responsible for the criticisms arising from the growth of the civil service, not the civil servant.

Mr. Baker briefly discussed the many departments which make up the framework of the civil service and told of the works of each. He emphasized the difficult works and hardships that one branch of the civil service, the government agents, went through. These government agents were scattered throughout the province and had sometimes as many as 12 different positions for which they were responsible. A greater appreciation of this section should be felt.

The greater majority of the civil servants were conscientious, hard-working people. There were a few, the speaker said, that do not warrant their positions. But, he said, these few are very hard to weed out. The conditions under which civil servants had to work made it difficult for them to hold enthusiasm in their work. They could not all get to the top.

After his address, Mr. Baker answered questions. Chairman for the evening was Ken McAllister. Refreshments were served.

The White Cane

The Victoria committee of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind announces that there are now more than 20 white walking sticks being used by blind persons in Victoria and district. These sticks are supplied through the Institute for the Blind to any sightless person wishing to have one. Most citizens realize the significance of the white stick, and make way for the owner of it both on the sidewalk and on the street, taking care not to push him or to get in his way, but there are some who are still ignorant of the meaning of this stick. Motorists are requested to remember that he who carries a white cane is not able to hurry across the street intersections, and it is suggested to pedestrians that assistance in crossing a crowded street is greatly appreciated by those who are blind.

Games of all kinds have been constructed for the use of blind persons, and these serve to while away hours which would otherwise be long and lonely. The squares on the checker board are cut deep so that the pieces fit in and cannot be inadvertently pushed from their position, the dots on the dominoes are raised in order that they may be easily felt, and the dominoes lock together in jig-saw fashion, playing cards are marked in the Braille system and also with moon type lettering, so that sighted and blind person can enjoy a game of cribbage, whist or bridge with ease. Jig-saw puzzles are especially constructed for the blind, and clocks, watches, thermometers and compasses are constructed with raised markings. Braille slates, braille typewriters and heavy paper necessary for writing braille are all supplied through the Institute for the Blind at less than cost price, and instruction in the use of these instruments and games is given by the local representative. Work of this kind in Victoria is financed by the Community Chest.

Austria Will Supply Metals

Germany Hopes to Add to Own Economic Independence By Union

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Foreign Staff

BERLIN — Hard-headed Nazi economists were busy today planning in minute detail the economic future of annexed Austria.

Lead, graphite, silver, gold, copper and magnesium are found in Austria and they will aid the German Reich on the path of economic independence.

While the masses in Austria and Germany were celebrating the joining of the two German-speaking nations with Chancellor Hitler as their leader and in command of their combined armies, German economists gave attention to the practical aspects.

Their job is to bring Austria under the Four-year Plan to make the Reich independent of foreign markets in providing for its needs.

NEW PROSPERITY

The German Minister of Economics, Walther Funk, in his message of greeting to his Austrian colleague, Hans Fischboek, sounded the economic keynote:

"A free German Austria under National Socialist leadership will henceforth participate in the Great German economic recovery under the Four-year Plan, and will itself achieve new prosperity thereby."

An obviously inspired article in the weekly magazine Irtsoch-Aftsdienst, written by Leonhard Obrascher, sets forth some of the Nazi hopes and aspirations.

"In Austria are to be found lead, graphite, silver, gold, copper, rare metals and last, but not least, magnesium in such quantities that Austrian magnesium still leads the world," Obrascher wrote.

"Water power in Austria has not been exploited anywhere nearly fully. It could help the aluminum industry and various other branches of production to attain unheard-of prosperity.

"Austria by no means is poor. All that is needed is that these treasures on Austrian soil find a master with the will to act."

Vancouverite Found Dead in England

MACCLESFIELD, Cheshire, Eng. (CP)—The body of Richard Bailey, aged 59, of Vancouver, B.C., was found Monday in an unused shed on a farm near Macclesfield.

The body bore a head wound and a shotgun lay nearby. Mr. Bailey is believed to have been a former member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. He leaves a widow living in Vancouver.

The man had been missing for five weeks. He was staying with his son, P. N. Bailey, near Manchester. A farmhand found the body, which apparently had been in the shed for some time.

Hoyle-Brown and Gainer's Superiors Meet Mainland Squads Tomorrow

"All the boys are in top form and feel confident they will make the grade." Those were the words of Manager Frank Shandley, who last night put his Hoyle-Brown cagers through a final training session in preparation for their sudden-death struggle with Cloverdale, mainland champions, for coast senior B men's basketball laurels.

This crucial battle has been given the second spot on tomorrow night's all-star hoop card to be presented at the High School gym.

The Victoria merchants will be on deck at full strength. There are 10 men on the Hoyle-Brown roster, all of whom are experienced ball players. They are fast on the ball and at times show uncanny marksmanship. Basketball followers are promised plenty of stirring action when these two imposing factions hook up at 8. The winner meets Kelowna in the B.C. finals.

GAINER'S TO BATTLE

Gainer's Superiors, crack Victoria women's club, have been accorded the final spot on the program for their opening contest with Spencers, Vancouver, for the British Columbia senior A women's crown. This series will be over two games, total points to count. The second match will be played Thursday at the High School.

Coach Axel Kinnear put his Superiors through their final paces last night. They are in fine fettle and hope to come through with a sizeable margin. This game should get under way shortly after 9

Tomorrow night's show will open at 7 with Bob Whyte's Adverts and Cumberland girls meeting in the first game of a two-game series for the intermediate B girls' island championship.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

RECOGNITION of Stanley Wooderson's outdoor world record for the mile and the establishment of a new indoor mark by the barrel-chested Glenn Cunningham brings to mind the different systems adopted by the runners of various countries.

United States trackmen have followed the Finnish system, introduced by Hannes Kolehmainen in 1912 and made famous by Paavo Nurmi, of running distances by the clock. The Finns, however, have been almost entirely methodical in their running and have depended on killing off the opposition long before the end of a race through their steady pace. By their careful timing the Finns have been able to get more and better distance records than anybody else in the world.

The British have just been the opposite. To them a race is a race, and the time is almost a matter of complete indifference. An Englishman runs to win regardless of the time.

Jack Lovelock, probably the greatest competitive runner of all time, never could run against the watch, and always made his best time in tough competition. He set his mile record running against Bill Bonthron, and his present world 1,500-metre mark in the Olympic Games. When he won his first great mile in 4.12 Lovelock ran the last 440 in the unbelievable time of 56 seconds, and he trotted off his final 320 yards in the record-breaking 1,500 metres at Berlin more than 2 seconds faster than any other fast 1,500-metre man has ever run it.

Just to give some indication of how Lovelock ran we will compare the manner of running the 1,500 metres used by Gene Venzke in setting the world indoor record in 1936, Jack Lovelock in making his Olympic and world outdoor record in 1936, and Cunningham the other night in setting his new indoor mark. Time is given by quarters, except for the fourth figure, which is for the final 320 yards:

Venzke	60.0	60.8	63.3	45.8—3.49.4
Cunningham	61.6	63.2	60.4	43.2—3.48.4
Lovelock	61.7	63.9	61.3	40.9—3.47.8

When you analyze these figures you realize that New Zealand's Lovelock was a very difficult person to stay with when it came to that sprint to the tape.

The first attempt by a Briton to run a "Finnish style" mile in an attempt to set a record was the successful attempt by Wooderson last summer. He had four pacemakers who had been given handicaps of from 10 to 140 yards, and his recoro of 4.06.4 was accepted a couple of weeks ago. It seems certain Cunningham's mark of 4.04.4 will be accepted as an indoor record, as he used the same system, giving handicaps of from five to 500 yards when he made his record.

Just to settle a few debates for those who like to know just how track records are made, here are the times, by quarters, for the chief record-breaking miles—indoor and uotdoor — in recent years, starting with the Ladoumegue mile, which was the first official mile to be run under 4.10:

Ladoumegue	60.8	63.4	63.8	61.2—4.09.2
Lovelock	61.4	62.2	63.1	58.9—4.07.6
Cunningham	61.5	64.0	61.8	59.1—4.06.7
Wooderson	58.6	64.0	64.6	59.2—4.06.4
Cunningham	58.5	64.0	61.7	60.2—4.04.4

Ladoumegue's plan was to run four quarters at a fairly even pace, Cunningham's has always been the plan of the great Joey Ray—run the opposition off their feet on the third lap—and Lovelock and Wooderson have followed the British tradition of murdering the boys with a blazing last lap. Anyway you look at it, it is still awfully fast.

Wembley Holds Cup Football

Gets Contract Renewal For Staging English Classic; Critchley Loser

LONDON—Brig.-General A. C. Critchley, Calgary-born sports magnate, has lost the most lucrative sports contract in Great Britain—the cup final.

He had announced he intended to increase the capacity of his White City plant to hold 175,000 spectators—to win the big football playoff. White City at present can accommodate only 60,000.

But his Wembley rivals, holders of the current contract, announced an expansion scheme too. They were awarded the contract and the classic will be held there for the nex 26 years.

Wembley's capacity—now 93,000—will be increased to 156,000 by stages. The scheme involves an expenditure of £70,000 ($350,000) and the work may be concluded for the 1939 cup final.

SPENCERS IN HOOP TRIUMPH

Defeat Fort Garrys 29 to 23 For Vancouver Senior Girls' Title

VANCOUVER — Spencers girls tucked away their newly-acquired Vancouver senior A basketball title today and polished up playing strategy for a Victoria invasion to contest the British Columbia hoop final with Superiors.

The Spencer squad won the right to meet Superiors last night when they staged a last-quarter rally to register a 29 to 23 win over Vancouver Fort Garrys in the fifth and deciding game of the Vancouver senior A women's series. Spencers won the first two games and Fort Garry the next two.

The Fort Garrys, favored to come through in the pinch, almost fulfilled expectations, staging a brilliant third-quarter rally that just fell short of tieing the count.

The Spencer girls led 8 to 4 at the end of the first quarter and 17 to 13 at the half but the Forts had brought the count to 19-18 at the three-quarter mark.

Only a last-quarter spurt, led by Anne Gregson, enabled Spencers to pull out the win. They outscored the Forts 10 to 3 in the last session for the victory.

JUVENILE SOCCER

Juvenile soccer matches scheduled Saturday are as follows:

Provincial Play-Downs (under 15)—Victoria Athletic Club vs. Oak Bay Rovers, Athletic Park; referee, E. Borde.

Exhibition game—Bluebirds vs. Esquimalt Meat Market, Heywood Avenue; referee, J. Sosier. Kick-offs at 10.30.

Intercity Soccer Eleven Is Named

Jack Okell and Earle Barnswell Given Positions On Saturday's Team

Selection of the Victoria United eleven to oppose New Westminster Royals at the Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon at 3, last night resulted in two additions to the squad. Jack Okell, Victoria West's hard-working young fullback, was given a position, as was Earle Bernswell, rising Esquimalt forward, who was voted for the centre-forward position.

Okell, who has turned in some sterling exhibitions with the league-leading greenshirts, replaces Jack Cook on the back line, while Barnswell will take the position held down so long by John Watt. The latter has been placed on the substitute list and will be ready for action if Barnswell fails to fit in with the remainder of the front line.

In goal for Victoria will be Wally Rowe. The other back with Okell will be the reliable George Leggett. On the half-back line will be Cliff Robbins, Roy Barnes and Glen Robbins.

The complete forward line will be Gordie Bell, Jimmy Worswick, Earle Barnswell, Noel Morgan and George Payne. On the substitute list are Eddie Brown, John Watt, Ronnie Williams, Norm Wallace and Arnie Wilkinson. Jim Mesher will be the team manager and Jimmy Carmichael the trainer.

In three matches to date the United has beaten St. Andrews, tied with St. Saviours and lost to North Shore.

GOLF SEMIS ARE GAINED

Leading United States Pros Advance in Four-ball Tourney at Miami

MIAMI, Fla.—Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta came from behind with a par-shattering burst yesterday to march into the semi-finals of the 15th annual $4,000 international four-ball tournament with a 4 and 3 victory over Jimmy Hines and Victor Ghezzi.

Behind after a mediocre exhibition in the morning, Picard and Revolta took command with a remarkable nine-hole 29, seven under par.

Picard started the rally of the three-time winners by rifling an approach shot within three feet of the 19th pin for an eagle three. He and Revolta clicked off birdies on five of the next six holes and went into the last nine with a four-hole lead. They coasted in from there, with Picard's 12-foot putt for a birdie two on the 33rd as the finishing touch.

COOPER BEATEN

Willie Goggin and Ben Hogan turned back Jimmy Thomson and Harry Cooper, 2 and 1, to qualify for a semi-final berth against Revolta and Picard. One up at noon with a five-under-par 67, Goggin and Hogan increased their lead to two holes at the 27th and held that margin to the end.

Harold (Jug) McSpaden and Byron Nelson, who shot the day's best golf, will meet Dick Metz and Ky Laffoon in the other semi-final today.

McSpaden and Nelson bagged six birdies on their last nine holes and were 15 under par for the day as they downed Denny Shute, P.G.A. champion, and Frank Moore, 2 and 1.

Metz, his short game superb, birdied three of the last four holes as his tandem rallied to whip Craig Wood and Billie Burke, 2 up.

Bartell Signs With New York

BATON ROUGE, La.—Dick Bartell, the New York Giants' star shortstop and last of the "regular" holdouts, came to terms with manager Bill Terry yesterday and signed his 1938 contract. Bartell, who had been demanding an increase in salary, was reported to have accepted $17,000, the same figure he received last year.

Major Hockey Clubs Open Drive to Finals

PATRICK MADE SMART SWITCH

Dillon and Hextall Have Come Through Since Changing Styles

NEW YORK—Products of two of the smartest switches in National Hockey League history—Cecil Dillon and Bryan Hextall—may play an important part in New York Rangers' drive for the Stanley Cup. Dillon and Hextall were left wingers until Lester Patrick defied orthdox coaching procedure and switched them to the right.

Dillon, one of the few United States-born players in the big-time, shoots from the left side but had only fair success until Patrick shifted him. Today he is the club's leading sharpshooter.

Hextall, born in Grenfell, Sask., but who started chasing pucks around Winnipeg and Portage La Prairie, Man., did all right as a left winger in the minors but had little success in his early N.H.L. days this season. He telegraphed his shots with a shoulder motion, a fault which vanished when he moved to the right lone. There he has been a goalie-menace ever since.

"A lot of coaches disagree with me but I figure a forward should be able to work on either wing, regardless of what way he shoots," says Patrick.

COWICHAN CUP MATCH CARDED

Oak Bay Wanderers to Battle Canadian Scottish Senior B on Saturday

The preliminary round of the Cowichan Cup series will get under way this week when the Canadian Scottish senior B fifteen meets the Oak Bay Wanderers at Macdonald Park. Percy Swetnam will referee.

At the request of Bert Buller coach of the Bays, at last night's meeting of the Victoria Rugby Union, the Bays-United Services first-round game was set back for one week. Buller told the attending delegates he would be unable to field a team this week.

Nanaimo Hornets have made entry into the series and will battle the winner of Saturday's game at Nanaimo on Sunday, March 27. Major Stuart Robertson, president of the Victoria Union, at last night's meeting of the body, congratulated the Navy and Victoria College on their victories last Saturday.

SPENCERS TO OPPOSE BAYS

Department Store Elevens Meet in Soccer Match Tomorrow Afternoon

Spencer's will take the field at the Athletic Park tomorrow afternoon to try and halt the undefeated Hudson's Bay squad in a postponed Pendray Cup soccer fixture. A win or a draw for the Bays will give them the Wednesday Football League championship. This match will be the second on a twin bill, and will start at 3, with Dave McMillan refereeing.

Gorge Hotel and the Navy are booked to battle in the opener at 2, with Percy Shrimpton as referee.

Trail Ice Team Is Badly Beaten

EDMONTON—Edmontop Athletic Club charged into the semi-finals of the western Canada junior hockey playdowns with a decisive 8 to 0 triumph over Trail Tigers here last night. The Alberta champions took the best of three interprovincial series with two straight victories, having won the first game 4 to 2 here Saturday night.

RUGBY MEETING

The recently-appointed rules committee of the Victoria Rugby Union will meet tonight in the Colonist board room at 8. Team managers and players who have any suggestions to place before the committee are invited to attend.

New York — Dean Detton 220, Salt Lake City, defeated Chief Thunderbird, 225, Victoria, B.C. (Thunderbird failed to return to the ring after Detton threw him out in 18.06).

Vancouver Lions In Playoff Win

Whip Portland 2 to 1 to Take Lead in Coast Hockey Finals

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Lions were one game up on Portland Buckaroos today, in the best of three series of the Coast Hockey League semi-finals, and could assure themselves of entering the finals against Seattle Sea Hawks by duplicating their victory over the Bucks, in Portland, Thursday night.

Lions defeated Buckaroos 2 to 1 before a howling crowd of 5,100 fans here last night.

Capitalizing on Portland penalties, Lions came from behind to drive in two goals—the first, midway through the initial period and the second, less than a minute into the middle session.

The weight of their hard driving defencemen aided the well-executed Leo Power plays against the short handed Buckaroos.

A body jolting game from whistle to whistle, the match yielded 16 penalties, nine to Portland and seven to Vancouver. Frew received four of the seven for his paralyzing jolts, while Bert Scharfe of the Bucks was sent to the bench three times. A minor fight between Ralph Blyth and Pringle accounted for another two.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Portland, Martin (Sutherland) 4.21; 2, Vancouver, palm (Frek) 9.07.

Penalties—Scott, Martin Oullette.

Second period—3, Vancouver, Pringle (Arnott) .50.

Penalties—Frew (3), Lennon, Scharfe (2), Pringle, Blyth, Oullette.

Third period—No scoring.

Penalties—Sutherland, Frew, Scharfe, Rimstad.

Four Teams Involved In Keen Scrap

Amerks, Canadiens, Detroit and Chicago All Play; Drillon Still Ahead

There'll be a little more throat-cutting in the National Hockey League tonight as the four clubs still uncertain of their places in the playoff picture involve themselves in a couple of many-sided struggles.

No one will pay much attention to the meeting of Montreal Maroons and the Bruins at Boston, for Maroons are sure of last place in the Canadian division and Boston has clinched the top of the other group. The interest is concentrated at Montreal, where Canadiens entertain Detroit Red Wings, and at New York, where Americans battle Chicago Black Hawks.

It would be simpler if Hawks played Detroit and Americans met Canadiens, for just about every playof question still unsettled could be answered tonight. But as it stands the program can produce multiple complications, as Canadiens try to climb over Americans, Red Wings to get nearer Chicago, Americans to better their hold on second place, and Black Hawks to clinch third place.

SIEBERT BACK

Canadiens will be happy no matter what the result of their game, for Babe Siebert returns to the defence after a month's absence through a knee injury. The Babe was voted most valuable player in the league last season. But the Habitants probably will be without Aurel Joliat, who suffered a shoulder injury when Canadiens tied Toronto 3 to 3 Saturday.

Red Wings hope to carry along the final bid they began Sunday when they defeated Chicago and stepped to within four points of the Hawks. But if Black Hawks win at New York the best Detroit can do is to achieve a third place tie by finishing the schedule without a loss or a draw. Red Wings will be all through if they lose tonight and Chicago wins or ties.

Americans are in a better spot than any of the other three struggling clubs. One point ahead of Canadiens, they have three games to play after tonight against only two for the Frenchmen.

SCORING RACE

The teams headed into the last week of the schedule with Gordon Drillon, Toronto Maple Leafs' second-year star, still setting the pace for about 140 marksmen on the scoring records.

Bagging two points during the last week, Drillon added a point to his margin over teammate Syl Apps. Last night's league statistics gave him 48, divided evenly between goals and assists. Apps has 20 and 25 for a 45 total.

Drillon's goals also leave him in front in actual scores, two up on George Mantha of Montreal Canadiens. Leadership in assists goes to Apps, with Drillon in second place.

Paul Thompson of Chicago Black Hawks remained at the top of the American division during the week, and in third place in the combined standing. He is credited officially with 21 goals and 22 assists. (Unofficial compilations, however, give the Chicagoan only 21 assists, though this wouldn't change his position.)

A neck-and-neck race is under way between Red Horner of Toronto and Art Coulter of New York Rangers for penalty leadership. Each has 80 minutes, though Coulter has been out of action for several games.

Scoring figures follow:

A Tea Party in Tokio

TOKIO, Japan—About 12 years ago, a Japanese woman named Ichiko Kamichika Suzuki wrote to me asking permission to translate one of my books, "The Child's Story of the Human Race," into the Japanese language. I wrote back to her saying I would be glad to have her do so.

Japanese women taking tea at high table.

The book was published in a two-volume edition. From time to time since then I have received letters from Japanese readers. In fact scores of Japanese men and women, boys and girls, have written to me.

Before starting on this trip, it was my hope to meet some of the readers who had written to me, and here in Tokio my wish has come true. Thanks to the kindness of Mrs. Suzuki and her husband, a tea party with about 25 persons present was held at a Tokio hotel soon after my arrival.

We spent two hours together, and they were interesting hours for me. I talked with one after another of the guests. Most of them could speak a little English, and I found that one was the editor of a magazine. Another told me he was "just a plain workman," and was sorry he could not speak much English.

Still another guest was a girl about 15 years of age. She came late, and seemed very shy as she joined the party. At the end she gave me a present, a square piece of very beautiful cloth. She said the cloth came from a kimono which had been worn by a Japanese princess who lived long ago.

Newspaper reporters and photographers also came to our party, and there were times when I was kept busy answering their questions and posing for pictures.

The guests were served with tea (Japan's national drink) and with cakes on the order of French pastry. The pastry served to me was very good. I found that out when I took one bite, but it was the only bite I had. There were so many things to do at the party, and I moved about so much, that it was all over before I had time to take a second bite!

I did not mind that. People are more important than food. I enjoyed every minute I spent talking with the guests.

Near the end, I gave a talk about my travels to the group. One of the newspapermen translated my words into Japanese for the benefit of those who did not understand English well enough.

One subject I did not speak about at the party was the warfare between Japan and China. The Japanese, as a rule, do not dare to say anything against the war.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—Believe it or not, but there is still an incredible number of women and men who are victims of the age complex and who become pessimistic, lose their ambition and initiative, throw up their hands and quit after they reach the middle 30's. Worse still, they resent any one of their age not thinking as they do and retiring into dull obscurity as they have. They bitterly criticize those men and women who take care of their looks, dress well and keep on with whatever work they are doing. I am a trained nurse, and my long experience proves to me beyond doubt that while too many people do age early, countless numbers are at their best, physically and mentally, in the middle years, and not a few in late life. What can we do to help overcome so much unnecessary depression due to the old-time calendar complex? A. D.

Answer: The people who permit themselves to become prematurely aged in these days are the sit-down strikers in life. They are the weaklings and the cowards who do not want to work or fight; so they make their age their alibi for laziness and for shirking off all of their duties and responsibilities.

The woods are full of hale and hearty men and women who climb up on the shelf when they are middle-aged and never hit another lick as long as they live, although they have still 30 or 40 years of good work in them. Half of the beggars who entreat us to help a poor old man or woman are plenty young to help themselves if they would, and there are few of us who do not help some aged relative who is younger than we are.

And who does not know parents who make a racket of their age and force their children to support them when they are far more able to work than the children are? After Bob and Sally get jobs, Father throws up his and becomes too old and feeble to do anything but play pool and loaf around a bar. Mother is so aged and infirm that the girls have to do the housework after standing behind counters all day while she goes to the movies.

But you can't do anything to rejuvenate these people who have the old age complex because they don't want to be young. Age is their graft and they make the most of it. We are moved to mirth very often over the figures of fun that people, and especially women, make of themselves when they are trying to flout the calendar and act and look like 16 instead of 60. Goodness knows, they are funny enough with their dyed hair and painted faces and flapper clothes, but at that they have something admirable that those lack who have surrendered to age. They have pep and they have spunk, and they are still trying to do something in the world instead of being cumberers of the ground.

As for any one thinking that middle age is a deadline that they cannot cross, that is nonsense. It takes us until we are 40 to learn our jobs and our best work is done after that. That is when we begin to reap what we have sown.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Here is a question in which I am especially interested. I want to know what is the matter with Dad. Our local Parent-Teacher Association seems to think there is something wrong with him. Why does he leave the heavy work of school and social problems to Mother? W. F. D.

Answer: Maybe it is because Dad works so hard all day to make money to support Mother and the kids that he is too tired when he comes home at night to do anything except drop in an easy chair after dinner and tune in on the radio on some innocuous program that wouldn't make any demands on the intellect of a fly.

Maybe it is because long experience has taught him that, so far as the children are concerned, Mother considers them her own private property, with which he has no right to interfere, and that so far as their rearing and education goes she is the whole works; that his appearance at a P.-T. meeting would simply be in the guise of a rubber stamp, so what's the use?

But of one thing you may be sure: The reason Dad leaves the heavy school work and social problems to Mother is not because he is not interested in the welfare of his children, but just because he knows Mother would settle them anyway, and like it.

DOROTHY DIX.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

Wednesday, March 16, 1938

Adverse planetary aspects are active today, according to astrology. It is a time for postponements and delays.

In the morning hours sudden changes of attitude toward men and women in authority may be noticed. Malefic influences succeed those that promised industrial and political co-operation.

Under this planetary government the mind may be uncertain and disturbed. Poise and courage should be sought. This is not an auspicious day for launching any enterprise. Extreme wisdom in outlining policies is urged.

Secrecy and subterfuge may be extended from centres of government. The national capital will present perplexing aspects due to subversive activities.

Severe storms with high winds and floods may do great damage in coming weeks. Again earthquakes are forecast in western states.

Education continues under a configuration which may cause agitation for the limitation of the number of college students in the United States.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of mingled pleasures and anxieties. Litigation should be avoided.

Children born on this day probably will be physically strong and mentally alert. Subjects of this sign usually are self-reliant and successful.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include George Wharton Pepper, former United States senator, 1867; William Byrd, colonial lawyer, 1674.

INDUSTRIES COMING HERE

Deputy Minister of Trade Says Many New Factories Being Established

"I have just been informed that a plant for processing vegetables by freezing will be established in New Westminster," Ed. Rowebottom, Deputy Minister of Trade and Industry, said in telling the Credit Granters' Association of the work of his department in encouraging new industries in the province at a luncheon meeting in Spencer's dining-room this afternoon.

"There is no reason why we should not have another such plant in Saanich, and also one in Comox," Mr. Rowebottom said. "Washington State has 10 such plants."

The Deputy Minister also saw the possibility of a small glass factory being established in Vancouver.

"We are fast approaching 1,000,000 people in this province," he said, "and it is about time we produced such essentials as glass and matches instead of importing them."

PURPOSES OF DEPARTMENT

Mr. Rowebottom said that the primary purpose of the Department of Trade and Industry was the investigation of matters of economic importance, and the encouragement of industrial and tourist development.

The department was divided into three different bureaus.

1. The Bureau of Economics and Statistics would collect and publish statistical records of commercial, industrial and social life and interdepartmental statistics.

2. The Bureau of Trade Extension would attempt to build up interprovincial trade which Mr. Rowebottom said was at a low point. By surveys it would study the Dominion and foreign markets.

"We have lost much of our trade in the Orient," he said, "but it is only a matter of time when this war will be over and we must be ready to take advantages of the purchases which will be necessary to rebuild the country."

As far as the encouragement of local trade which was one of the duties of this bureau, the deputy minister felt that the people of the province themselves were falling down badly. They did not support their own products.

3. The Bureau of Information and Tourist Development would stimulate the tourist traffic. In this bureau a tourist council would be set up consisting of four from the civil service and three from public tourist bodies. This would co-ordinate the activities of the various tourist associations throughout the province whose work often overlapped.

AT WORLD FAIR

The bureau would also handle the province's exhibit at the San Francisco World Fair. British Columbia had obtained 2,000 square feet of floor space in the Court of the Western States and would have a show of which anyone would be proud, Mr. Rowebottom promised.

As 20,000,000 people were expected to visit the fair, the bureau would have "directors" who would try and turn the traffic back home through British Columbia.

L. E. Evenden was in the chair. Len Cox introduced the speaker.

Harry B. Dawson, secretary, reported there was an "epidemic" of bad checks over the week-end.

W. T. Land was welcomed as a new member.

Vancouver Asks Further Help

VANCOUVER (CP) — Faced with the possibility the provincial government may cut its relief works program grant to Vancouver, the city council at a special meeting yesterday laid plans to confer with Premier T. D. Pattullo by telephone.

Alderman J. W. Cornett, acting mayor in the absence of Mayor George C. Miller, will call the Premier and seek continuance of the grant. The city needs $10,000, Ald. Cornett said.

Should the government refuse further assistance, the council agreed, the city will be unable to continue the program. Abandonment of the scheme would put 1,400 men off the various city relief projects and most of them would return to the relief rolls

Up to the end of January Vancouver received $15,000 a month for its work project. This was cut down to $10,000 in February and the grant expired at the end of that month.

Premier Pattullo said this morning the matter of the grant had been settled in February and so far he had heard nothing of the new representations as indicated from Vancouver.

Says Shooting Irrational Act

No Murder Intent, Counsel For Jackson Graves Claims

"If the accused had intended to kill the constable, he would have shot straight before him and could not have missed," H. W. Davey claimed in his address to the jury today as the case for the defence in the trial of Jackson Graves was completed in Assize Court.

Graves is charged with shooting at Constable S. E. Menzies as well as obstructing him in the execution of his duties and assaulting the constable in the performance of them. The accused, counsel said, was little more than seven feet from the constable when the revolver was fired. Defence counsel contended the shooting was the irrational act of a man not in his proper senses owing to the influence of alcohol and to blows over the head. The shots, he said, had been fired only to frighten the people in the little Port Renfrew shack, where the occurrence took place on December 12.

NO EXPLANATION

Mr. Davey blamed the constable for provoking trouble by arresting the accused without explaining the grounds for the arrest. On that basis he was not guilty of obstructing the officer and could be charged only on the third count and that on the grounds of common assault.

Further testimony on distances and angles was given by Constable J. A. Young, ballistic expert.

Dr. T. W. A. Gray gave evidence on the condition of Graves, who, he said he had examined on December 15 on his arrival here. The accused had a severe abrasion on the top of the head as well as bruises on the arms.

From the evidence of Constable Menzies and others, he had come to the conclusion Graves had been under the influence of liquor and added he would probably act in an unreasonable manner owing to that and to the fact that he was suffering from blows over the head.

Constable S. E. Menzies testified that he had been summoned to the house by Mrs. Jessie Wilson, grandmother of the accused's wife, and shortly after his arrival at the house saw Graves strike his wife on the left side of the face with his first. Witness stood between them to avert further violence. He told Graves that his wife and Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Graves' mother-in-law, were going to lay charges against him and placed him under arrest. It was shortly after 12 midnight. Graves said there was no hurry when told to come along.

The constable then took him by the right arm, but Graves resisted, grabbing the side of the door leading outside. Witness knocked his arm away and Graves' weight fell against him, the impact knocking witness off balance to the ground below. Witness struck his head and was momentarily stunned. While he was in that condition the accused took the constable's gun and pointing it at him, ordered the constable into the house and then ordered his wife over by the constable, who pulled her behind him, witness said. During the scuffle with Constable Menzies, Graves dislodged his shoe and, trying to get it back in place, slipped, the gun discharging accidently into the floor.

When he had regained his balance again, Graves fired four successive shots in the general direction of the constable, the gun at his hip. The bullets entered the ceiling and upper wall. Witness was about seven feet seven inches away when Graves fired the shots, the witness testified.

Witness then disarmed him. Before leaving with the constable, Graves wrote a note to his wife. After his wife had read it and was willing to give it to the constable, Graves grabbed it and burned it.

When asked by H. W. Davey, defence counsel, as to whether the accused was intoxicated at the time, Constable Menzies said that he had the smell of beer on his breath, but he did not appear to be intoxicated.

Alfred P. Dixon who assisted Constable Menzies in taking Graves into custody after the shooting, testified on cross-examination that Graves "could hardly walk straight," but believed he was not under the influence of liquor to such an extent that he did not know what he was doing.

Britain Hears Coalition Talk

All-Party Government Suggested; Chamberlain's Position Discussed

LONDON (CP)—Formation of an "all-party" government to enable Great Britain to face in political unity the increasingly grave international situation is a topic of speculation in London tonight.

It is considered doubtful, however, whether Labor and Liberal opposition would be prepared to serve with Prime Minister Chamberlain.

One Labor spokesman said the party would not be prepared to enter a coalition except in the event of a supreme emergency such as war.

One member of the House expressed belief Mr. Chamberlain's appeal Monday for an extension of national effort foreshadowed an appeal to Labor and Liberals to enter a wider government which would include David Lloyd George and Winston Churchill.

Discuss Further Cut in Schools

Trustees Say Salaries Offer Only Source For Reduction in Budget

Members of the City School Board, with the exception of Trustee W. P. Marchant, who was not available, agreed to meet the city's finance committee and Mayor Andrew McGavin today in an effort to make further reductions in the school budget and avoid arbitration.

In a statement prior to the meeting, Trustee P. E. George, chairman of the board, stated the majority of the trustees were of the opinion further economies could only be made in reducing teachers' salaries. If the council delegates insisted on further cuts, he felt the board would co-operate by reducing the wage restoration promised to teachers from 5 to 3 per cent and by lopping $2,000 off the allocation for salaries following September.

By reducing the amount by which salaries should be restored by 2 per cent, a saving of approximately $6,000 could be effected, he said.

The board, Trustee George said, was making a gamble on the offer to slash $2,000 from the salary vote from September onward. The teachers had been informed certain revisions would be undertaken in September and he thought those changes might make the saving.

Those two amounts, coupled with the $4,640 cut from the general budget last night, would make the total reduction made in the last two days $12,640. The council had asked the board for a cut of $17,000.

In view of divided opinion evidenced by aldermen during last night's consideration of the arbitration move, it was thought in some circles the board's offer would be accepted and the move for abitration dropped.

In his statement today, Trustee George emphasized the fact the salary vote was the only one which could be touched.

Glory in Death For Millionaire

Tony Oklend, Laborer Who Found Little Long Lac, Comes Home to Toronto

As much prominence as is rated by a royal funeral has been given by the Toronto papers to the homecoming of the body of Tony Oklend, for 50 years a day laborer and for five a bewildered millionaire.

The body came from Florida to Oakville, Ontario, in a $5,000 bronze casket, traveling in a baggage car. With it traveled the blonde, blue-eyed woman whom Tony Oklend married 18 months ago, and who is heiress to the fortune which came from his co-discovery of the Little Long Lac gold mine.

Oklend (he had an unpronounceable Lithuanian name, but changed it when he came to this continent) landed in the United States from the steerage of a ship in 1904. For six years he worked in and around Chicago. Then he came to Canada as a laborer on the Canadian National's new line around Long Lac and Port Arthur.

When the war broke out, Tony, who remembered what he had seen of the Russian army in his native land, headed for the backwoods and became a trapper, building himself a log cabin down near Long Lac.

It was during the war that Tony first found gold, not as a prospector but by luck. He went on with his trapping, after bringing $900 worth of the metal in to the Hudson's Bay post at Long Lac.

Some time in 1925 he pulled his canoe up on the beach of the lake and went to sleep. In the morning his boot heel scraped away a piece of moss and he found himself looking at a vein of quartz with a yellow glitter. He explored around—and kept silent.

Then in 1932 Tony saw prospectors come into his backwoods haunts. After a time he teamed up with one of them, Tom Johnston. They staked 12 claims. The claims became the Little Long Lac mine

He became suddenly one of Canada's richest men. He could not write. He had to learn laboriously to sketch out his signature.

And so it was that Tony Oklend, who had lived in box cars and backwoods cabins, became in a few short days the owner of a mansion in Oakville, expensive limousines, speedboats in which he took lonely rides in Lake Ontario.

In 1935, in Chicago, he met a Lithuanian girl, Sylvia Czarnecki, fell in love with her. For a year he courted her, then married her, loaded her with jewels and sables.

Early this month, in a luxurious Florida hotel, Tony fell sick. He died in the most expensive room of the hospital there.

Last week his body came home to Oakville.

Says Open Door Policy Remaining

Japanese Minister Makes Statement on Reconstruction Plans For China

SHANGHAI (AP) — Masayuki Tani, Japanese minister-at-large stationed in Shanghai, said today the "open door" in China would remain open after the present conflict was settled.

Tani said in an interview Japan would grant equal opportunity for friendly powers to aid in the reconstruction of China as soon as possible.

"Major fighting is finished, we are in a transition period and soon reconstruction will begin," he said. "Then Japan will prove to the world by her actions that declarations setting out her aims in the Orient pledging equality of treatment were not mere words."

The military situation on the Yellow River front remained confused, but Japanese army spokesmen no longer claimed that any Japanese troops were south of the river in their attack on the Lunghai railway.

Japanese reported the Chinese feverishly constructing defence works at all fords along the river, as well as concentrating planes at Tungkwan, across the river from the southwestern point of Shansi Province.

"HIT AND RUN" LAW IN ISSUE

Appeal May Be Necessary But Offence Still Covered, Says Wismer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A charge of failing to return to the scene of a traffic accident was dismissed by Police Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson yesterday on grounds that sections of the British Columbia Motor Vehicles Act were ultra vires of the provincial Legislature.

Attorney Gordon Scott, appearing for K. L. McKenzie, argued subsections 1 and 2 of the Motor Vehicles Act, under which his client was charged, were fully covered by section 285 of the Criminal Code of Canada—and for that reason the subsection was ultra vires.

Magistrate Matheson upheld the argument and dismissed the charge, which had been laid after a boy had been knocked from his bicycle and slightly injured several weeks ago.

Maximum penalty for failing to return to the scene of the accident is $50 or 30 days in jail under the Criminal Code, and considerably higher under the Motor Vehicles Act. In prosecutions under the Criminal Code section the onus is on the crown to prove the person charged failed to return because of a desire to avoid criminal or civil liability.

McKenzie said at the trial he did not stop because he did not know there had been an accident.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said this morning he would study the legal position of the Motor Vehicles Act clauses declared ultra vires by Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson to determine whether an appeal was necessary.

He noted that a parallel case arose in Vancouver about a year ago and an accused person was discharged for the same reason. It was then pointed out that if the charge had been laid under the Criminal Code instead of under the Motor Vehicles Act a conviction might have been secured. In view of this, he said, the matter would rest with the prosecutor to lay the charge under the code.

Morrow Story At Dominion

"Of Human Hearts," By Popular Writer, Stars Walter Huston

The surge and thunder of war is contrasted with the even more dramatic struggles that go on within human hearts in "Of Human Hearts," which opened today at the Dominion Theatre, with Walter Huston in his first picture since his triumphs in "Dodsworth" James Stewart and Beulah Bondi.

Tense dramatic moments, poignant tragedy, lively comedy and the thrills of war are woven into the Honore Morrow story of a pioneer Ohio preacher of Lincoln's day and his family, deftly directed by Clarence Brown, with the same human touches he used in "Ah Wilderness!"

Intimate glimpses into human character are given by Charles Coburn as the bibulous village doctor, Guy Kibbee as the skin-flint storekeeper, Clem Bevans as the deaf elder, Arthur Aylesworth, Gene Lockhart and other skilled character players.

Mae West Will Star at Atlas

"If You Want to Make a Hit With Fifi," sings Mae West in her new comedy of life in New York, "Every Day's a Holiday," opening tomorrow at the Atlas Theatre.

The new song hit by Sam Coslow is one of the four new hit tunes which will be heard for the first time in the picture. Others are "Flutter By, Little Butterfly," also by Coslow; "Jubilee," by Hoagy Carmichael (who wrote "Star Dust") and Stanley Adams, and "Every Day's a Holiday," by Coslow and Barry Trivers.

"Thrill of a Lifetime," starring Eleanor Whitney and Johnny Downs, will be the second picture on the program.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Around the Docks

With a big cargo for British Columbia ports, the Donaldson Line's freighter Parthenia reached Race Rocks early this afternoon from the United Kingdom.

She first went into Esquimalt Harbor to discharge and this evening is expected at the Rithet piers to put ashore 200 tons of general, including bananas from South America and citrus fruits from southern California.

Word has been received of the death in Seattle over the week-end of Lieut.-Colonel Paul Edwards, who was known to transportation men here when he was assistant to the vice-president of the American Mail Line. For four years he was port warden at Seattle, under Mayor Edwin J. Brown. He frequently came here in connection with the arrival and departure of President liners.

Ss. Anglo-Indian, Capt. B. S. May, which was here Saturday with cargo from Halifax and will return next week-end to load lumber for the United Kingdom, is a new vessel, launched only a few months ago at Sunderland. She is designed to carry 9,850 tons at moderate draught, and is 447 feet in length with a 61-foot beam. Thirteen steam winches give the cargo handling power. Streamline houses on the shelter deck quarter the officers and engineers. The ship is of partial "arcform" design.

The American freighter Atenas is today at Cowichan Bay loading a parcel of Vancouver Island lumber for Philadelphia and other United States ports on the Atlantic seaboard. King Brothers are handling her.

Longshoremen were this morning taking drums of gasoline and oil from the water-soaked holds of the Beulah, now fast alongside the Ogden Point piers. All cargo will be out by Thursday and then another survey will be made to determine if the ship will be repaired and sent to sea again.

It will cost $225,000 to repair the big Japanese passenger liner Asama Maru and fit her again for trans-Pacific service, after being aground in Hongkong harbor, where she was blown ashore by a typhoon, since last September. The ship is now being towed to Nagasaki, where repairs will be effected.

In about four months she will take her place with her sister ships, the Titivu Maru, formerly the Chichibu Maru, and the Tatsuta Maru. Her place for the last few months has been taken by the Taiyo Maru.

The four Canadian destroyers, Skeena, Saguenay, Fraser and St. Laurent are now cruising off the Mexican coast, close to Acapulco, on their way to Esquimalt harbor, after manoeuvres in southern waters. They are expected here in mid-April. It will mark the first visit here of the Saguenay and St. Laurent, which have been based at the Halifax naval station.

The Blue Funnel liner Tyndareus, originally due from the Orient this week, was delayed in Japan and will not arrive until a week tomorrow.

Coast Threatened With Ship Strike

OLD SAILOR PASSES AWAY

James Dupen Joined British Navy 70 Years Ago and Served on Royal Yacht

James Dupen, 87, who joined the British navy 70 years ago and whose long and varied career included tailoring and hotel management, died at the Jubilee Hospital last night after a brief illness.

Because he did tailoring for King Edward VII when he was Prince of Wales on the royal yacht Osborne, Mr. Dupen was given permission to display the Prince of Wales' feathers wherever he dwelt in the British Empire.

In recent years he had lived in the Surrey Block, at the corner of Yates and Broad Streets, and just below his living room window he hung the royal crest, which had attracted much attention from passers-by, particularly visitors to town.

Mr. Dupen was born in London, and early in his teens joined the navy, serving for 12 months on the training ship Vincent.

ON MANY SHIPS

In 1869 he went aboard H.M.S. Gladiator of the African fleet and was stationed at the Cape of Good Hope. Then he transferred to H.M.S. Rattlesnake, and in 1872, back in England aboard H.M.S. Thalia, he went aboard H.M.S. Duke of Wellington, where he served a few months before being appointed to the troopship H.M.S. Euphrates, plying twice a year between Portsmouth and Bombay. He remained on her two years, passing through the Suez Canal six times. After the Euphrates he returned to the Duke of Wellington, and then took a gunnery course aboard H.M.S. Excellent, later becoming a leading seaman and first class gunner.

Mr. Dupen loved to talk of his days in the navy and aboard the royal yacht. He was an entertaining talker, too, and his cronies in naval circles here delighted to hear him. He was fond of Queen Alexandra, who acted as a mother to the crew, he said. King Edward was hearty and liked members of the crew to sing nautical songs for him. King George V was just a boy at the time and romped about the decks.

CAME TO CANADA

When he left the navy and the royal yacht in 1890 Mr. Dupen opened a tailoring shop at Portsmouth and it was then he received royal perinission to display the Prince of Wales feathers. He remained only a year in his little tailor shop at Portsmouth, for Canada was calling him and he came out to Calgary, where he did business under the feathers until 1904, when he moved west to Banff and operated the Hotel View, and in 1904 he arrived in Victoria and opened a tailoring and mending shop, again displaying the three royal feathers.

After a few months he bought the Royal Arms Hotel on Store Street and remained its genial proprietor until 1916, when he rejoined the navy at Esquimalt. There he had the distinction to be the oldest man wearing a British naval uniform. He was 68 when he received his discharge after the Armistice.

SHIPMATE HERE

One of Mr. Dupen's shipmates on the royal yacht Osborne was J. E. Day of "Miraflores," Cook Street. The two friends often met and talked of those happy days.

Mrs. Dupen died in September, 1935. Surviving Mr. Dupen are three sons, one in Bakersfield, Cal., one in Seattle and one in Lethbridge.

Mr. Dupen was a well-known member of the Naval Veterans' branch of the Canadian Legion, Pride of the Island Lodge, Sons of England and the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The remains are reposing at the Sands Mortuary and arrangements of the funeral will be announced later.

Labor Says Plans Being Made "For Year-long Fight, If Necessary"

SAN PEDRO (AP)—Los Angeles harbor's newest labor dispute, throwing 3,000 longshoremen out of work, threatened today to affect all United States Pacific coast shipping.

Longshoremen, at odds with the Waterfront Employers' Association, received a pledge of support from the San Pedro council of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific.

If operators divert San Pedro-bound vessels to other west coast ports, a spokesman for the Federated Union said, action will be taken to stop them.

Members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Unions were summoned to a mass meeting this afternoon in Wilmington Bowl by President Ernie Bowen to make plans "for a year-long fight, if necessary."

Eighteen ships were tied up in port. No commercial vessel was loaded or unloaded.

The tie-up became a fact yesterday after a week of bickering between the Waterfront Employers' Association and union leaders over whether longshoremen should unload cargo from freight cars onto "liftboards."

Wheat Up With Outlook Better

WINNIPEG (CP) — Minor export buying and short covering induced by reports of dust storms in the United States southwest pushed Winnipeg wheat futures higher today. Final quotations were ⅝ to ¾ cent higher, May $1.17½, July $1.08½ and October 91 cents.

Sales of Canadian wheat were estimated at 200,000 bushels but it was difficult to confirm actual new business of that amount.

Trading was mixed and irregular with early gains of nearly two cents almost wiped out by profit-takers. Then prices rallied again to reports of dust blowing in Kansas and Oklahoma with Garden City, Ark., reporting the worst dust storm of 1938. Rain was indicated in sections of Kansas late today.

Liverpool rallied to average higher at the close. Buenos Aires moved ahead 1 to 1⅛ cents.

Cash wheat demand was slow although odd lots of No. 3 northern were sold at ¼ cent improvement in the spread. Other grades generally were unchanged.

Exporters took barley and southern firms purchased rye. Flax, barley and rye were more than a cent higher and oats ⅛ to ⅛ cent up.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat scored 1½ cents maximum advance in Chicago today, stimulated considerably by upturns of securities, but profit-taking caused late reactions.

Some buying of wheat futures here was attributed to exporters and to milling interests. A late recovery in French francs was also construed as bullish relative to wheat.

At the close Chicago wheat futures were ¼ to 1 cent above yesterday's finish, May 36⅛ to 36¼, July 83⅛ to 83¼; corn, ¼ to ½ up, May 58⅛, July 60, and oats, unchanged to ¼ advance.

Industrials Lead In Leisurely Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks climbed into further recovery territory today with selected issues posting gains running to two points generally and a few much more.

The list was handicapped for awhile in the first hour by profit-selling. This was absorbed without difficulty and a leisurely advance got under way which held until around the close when top marks were reduced in some cases.

Heavy industrials, including steels, rubbers, coppers, motors, aircrafts and mail orders were the most popular. Utilities were narrow, as were the majority of rails.

The ticker tape frequently idled, but the approximate volume of 700,000 shares topped Monday's turnover considerably.

Little activity was evident among Canadian issues. Small gains were made by Dominion Stores, International Nickel and Canadian Pacific, while McIntyre Porcupine dropped a minor fraction.

Austrian issues broke further in the bond market, while Czechoslovakian loans rallied after an early loss.

The Austrian 7s, which broke around 37 points yesterday, were down more than 4 today. Czech Government 8s of '51 and '52, were up for the day after initial losses of around a point. Prague 7½s, however, were off around 4 points. French Government 7½s were off around three points.

Dow Jones averages closed today as follows:

Thirty industrials—127.24, up 3.56.

Twenty rails — 26.58, up 0.23.

Twenty utilities—19.01, up 0.33.

Forty bonds—88.13, up 0.07.
